Atomic Spending The Tieup

Senate Row Keeps Congress On Job; Convention Waits

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP)—A hot Senate row over a White House-opposed curb on spending for atomic weapons expansion held up adjournment of Congress tonight.

The Senate rejected the house-passed restrictions and sent a 100 billion dollar supplemental appropriation bill back to conference for a third time.

Rejection was by a tie vote, on the heels of an appeal against the House provision from President Truman. Truman said in a letter to Vice-PPresident Barkley, presiding over the Senate, and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn earlier in the evening that the House proviso would hobble atomic weapons production and jeopardize national security.

The House wrote into the bill a rider which, Truman's letter said, "forbids the Atomic Energy Commission to start any specific construction project unless funds are available to complete" it.

The bill contains $1,450,000,000 for the Atomic Energy Program.

Arguing against the House curb, Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) told the Senate:

"There isn't any question but that the end result—power for the defense of this country—will be unduly and perilously delayed if the provision remains."

Adjournment Still Planned

Meanwhile, Congress hit another snag when the Senate sent back to conference the main, 46 billion dollar, military appropriation bill. But House and Senate leaders stil counted on adjournment tonight.

Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), one of the conferees on the supplemental bill, told a reporter he understood the bill was due to be sent back to conference on another matter. That would give the committee an opportunity to cancel the rider Truman wanted eliminated.

He did not say why the bill had to return to conference.

Meanwhile, the House passed the bill, sending it to the Senate.

A Senate-House Conference Committee quickly worked out a compromise to eliminate differences over the 46 billion dollar military funds bill which had sent it back to conference a second time.

The Senate had boggled at a house provision forbidding the Air Force to use its funds to pay Aro, Inc. for operation of a laboratory at Tullahoma, Tenn. Aro has a contract calling for $95,000 a year to operate the laboratory, which is hooked into a wind-tunnel project. Rep. Gore (D-Tenn) sponsored a rider forbidding pay ment, on the grounds $95,000 a year was too much.

Senate Rejects Rider

The Senate rejected, 34-28 a motion to accept the rider. On a voice vote, it insisted the rider be eliminated in a new conference.

The conferees agreed to payment of the contract, as is, until next March 31. That, Gore said, gives the Air Force until then to make new arrangements.

The bill was sent back to both houses for action.

The House approved, and sent to the Senate, a 76 million dollar bill to finance Congress through next June 30. The bill contained a provision allowing Representatives and Senators to deduct, for income tax purposes, the first $3,000 of their Washington living expenses each year.

The conference report on the 10 billion dollar supplemental appropriation left final votes still to come in one or both houses on most of 60 billion dollars worth of must appropriations.

The final money bill still in Senate-House conference—where differences between bills passed by the two houses are ironed out—was a bill for river, harbors and flood control projects.

Wheat Price Support Up 3 Cents Here

Harvey Announces Local Price Jumps To $2.29 A Bushel

The 1952 wheat price support rates previously announced have been increased three cents per bushel to reflect 90 percent of parity on July 1, 1952.

James A. Harvey, chairman of the Pettis County Production and Marketing Administration, explains that this increase now changes the local county No. 1 wheat loan rate from $2.26 per bushel to $2.29; and in Johnson county where a number of Pettis County farmers are storing their wheat—the rate on No. 1 wheat is $2.31. The cost of storage until date of loan maturity, April 30, 1953, will be deducted from the loan rate on warehouse stored wheat. A storage deduction of 12 cents per bushel will be made on wheat received for storage during th period from June 25 through July 24.

Harvey explains that about one-third of the nation's wheat crop goes to market at harvest time, mostly in July and August. This strains shipping facilities, overloads the markets, and tends to force wheat prices below those prevailing during the remainder of the year, therefore wheat producers will be acting in their own interest if they make the fullest use of the available price support in marketing their wheat.

The wheat may be stored either on the farm or in an approved warehouse. No. 1 wheat shipped to a Kansas City terminal warehouse will have a loan rate of $2.49 per bushel and at a St. Louis terminal warehouse — $2.53 per bushel. The cost of shipping the wheat to the terminal warehouse, handling and other charges will leave a net return of approximately $2.14 per bushel when placed under loan.

If the price of wheat is higher than the loan price during the time the wheat is under loan, the producer can sell it on the open market, pay his loan, and take his profit.

If the price is below support level at loan maturity time, the wheat can be delivered to CCC in full payment of the loan.

Settlement with CCC upon maturity of the loan will be based on the official Grain Standard of the United States and will not be effected by the Pure Food and Drug Act, explained Harvey.

North Dakota Bees Use Courthouse Dome As Hive

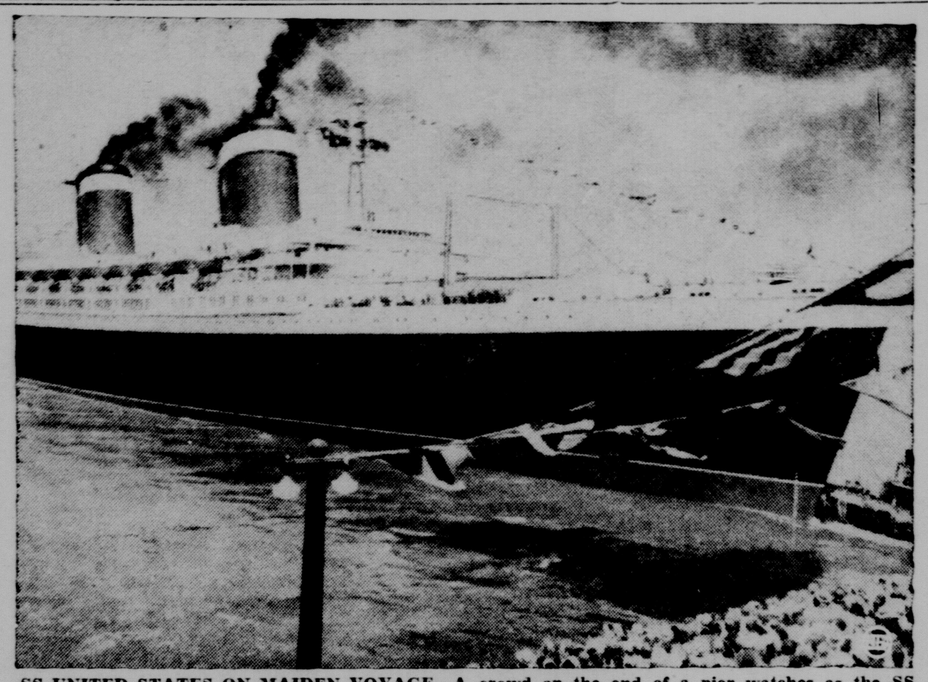

RUGBY, N. D., July 5—(AP)—You can't say the Pierce County Court house here isn't a beehive. . . . Especially the tall, rounded dome, which in a way looks like one.

Carpenters making repairs on the dome came down for coffee, bringing enough honey to spread biscuits for everybody in town.

They removed seven bucketsfull of the sweet stuff.

America's Sleek Liner Heads For Atlantic Crossing Mark

ABOARD THE S. S. UNITED STATES, July 5—(AP)—America's sleek new queen of the seas streaked well ahead of the Queen Mary's 14-year-old record-setting pace across the Atlantic tonight after plowing through a night of blinding fog and bumpy seas.

In the first two days of the streamlined 53,000-tonner's maiden crossing, the United States covered 1,497 miles at an average of close to 35 knots—or amout 42 land miles an hour. The Queen Mary's two-day log in 1938, when she set the transatlantic speed record, was 1,415 miles at an average of 31.35 knots.

She's Not Wide Open Yet

Commodore Harry Manning, skipper of the United States, said the vessel was using all four of her giant propellers but "we are still just cruising leisurely."

Deck-chair experts, including several reporters and notables like Margaret Truman, are predicting the American liner and its 1,700 passengers wlil pass Bishop's Rock off the English Coast before dawn Monday to shatter the Queen Mary's record by six to ten hours.

Speed tests are clocked between Ambrose Light off the American Coast and Bishop's Rock. The Queen Mary made it between these two points in three days, 20 hours 42 minutes at an average of 31.69 knots.

Manning Sleeps Little

Manning who still won't say officially he's out to break the record got only three hours' sleep the past 24. He spent all last night steering his racing streak of power at still record-breaking speed through a fog that put visibility down to zero. Two giant radar screens were the ship's eyes. The ship was reported at times to be hitting 36 knots.

The ship's gay passengers unaware of the drama, dined and danced in Independence Day celebrations and then slept it off until late this morning.

By then the fog had lifted, but a stiff wind whipped up choppy seas. Dame nature seemed to decide then that the United States had proved her mettle and the weather calmed. There was a slight swell and a 20-mile-an-hour easterly head wind.

On the first day out, the United States covered 696 miles at an average of 34.11 knots, and in the next 22 hours she had gone another 801 miles at an average of 35.609 knots.

Manning said he had received a message from the sporting skipper of the rival British liner, Capt. Harry Grattidge, saying:

"Welcome to the family of big liners on the Atlantic."

No Word From Elizabeth

There was no word, Manning said, from the Mary's sister ship, the Queen Elizabeth, which left New York 35 hours ahead of the United States.

Among the large group of reporters are a number of British radio and newspaper correspondents who are giving England a play-by-play account of the crossing. Douglas Willis of the BBC said:

"This ship has got it. She'll win the blue ribbon by 10 hours."

If the graceful new liner keeps up her present pace she should reach Le Havre, France, in time for lunch Monday. She then will lay over until Tuesday before sailing to Southhampton to pick up passengers for the return trip to New York.

JudgeHoffman Breaks A Leg In Car Wreck

Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, 68, 1001 South Vermont, was injured severely about 6 p. m. Saturday when the car in which he was riding with his daughter, Miss Ruth Maurine Hoffman, 16, struck a light pole on the Missouri State Fair Grounds. The accident occurred while Judge Hoffman was teaching his daughter how to drive.

Judge Hoffman suffered a compound fracture of the bones of the right leg below the knee, abrasions on his head and severe shock. He was taken to Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance and treated by Dr. A. L. Walter.

Dr. Walter explained that although Judge Hoffman's injuries are severe and painful, he considered his condition as satisfactory.

Miss Hoffman told state troopers, who are in training at the fair grounds, that she became excited in nearing a barricade and end of a street and lost control of the machine. It jumped a small ditch and crashed into an old light pole, breaking-off the pole and doing considerable damage to the front of the car, a 1952 Mercury sedan.

She was uninjured, and when her father told her his foot was hurt, she ran to the horse barns to seek aid. She was taken to the Administration Building where she called Dr. Walter. State troopers hurried to the crash scene. Seeing the condition of Judge Hoffman, they called an ambulance.

Lee Foods Elects An Ex-Sedalian Its President

Charles Raymond Boyle, 6100 McGee, Kansas City, a former Sedalian, has been elected president of the Lee Foods Division of the Consolidated Grocers Corp., of Chicago. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyle of this city, and a brother of Mrs. Paul Berthouex, 1008 East Tenth.

The announcement of Boyle's appointment was made by S. M. Kennedy, president of the corporation. Boyle, who was formerly executive vice-president, succeeds G. T. McCarney, who resigned.

Boyle has been associated with the Lee Foods since 1919, was in charge of the institutional department of the H. D. Lee Company's food operations when they were purchased by and became a division of Consolidated in November 1950.

He became vice-president a month later and a member of the executive committee of the Lee Foods Division. He was named executive vice-president in May.

Boyle was reared and educated in Sedalia, served in World War I, and upon his return from service went to Kansas City where he has since resided.

The Lee Food Division occupies one of the largest single structures in the Fairfax district. The building, completed last January, is on the northeast corner of Funston and Fiberglass Roads. It supplies more than 6,000 retail customers and institutional organizations in seven midwest states.

KC Child Badly Injured In A Fall Of 35-Feet

KANSAS CITY, July 5—(AP)—A 17-months-old baby was injured critically here today when he crawled through a third story porch railing and plunged 35 feet into an alleyway below.

The child is Michael Gaines Gayther, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Gayther.

The Gayther home is only a few feet from the place where yesterday a 20 months old baby girl was killed in a second story fall.

List Of Candidates Proves US Voters Prefer Older Men

NEW YORK, July 5—(AP)—The United States is getting so she prefers older men.

And there's a chance she may elect one of her oldest presidents, come next November.

So concludes an Ohio University psychology professor who has been studying age trends in public leaders.

"Men do not fade away today as early as they did in former times," said Professor Harvey C. Lehman.

And this doesn't apply only to women's movie idols.

Compared to past presidents, many of the major 1952 candidates are, to put it plainly, getting on in years.

Particularly in the top Republican lineup.

And President Truman, if he should be drafted by the Democrats and win, would, at 68, be the oldest man ever elected President in United States history.

Either Sen. Robert A. Taft or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower also would have this distinction if elected and returned to office for a second term.

For the first term, Taft, at 63, would be the fourth oldest President in U. S. history. Eisenhower, at 62, would be the fifth oldest.

If either Gen. MacArthur, at 72, or Vice-President Barkley, at 75, were named chief executive, he would be the oldest ever to occupy the office.

Theodore Roosevelt, at 42, was the youngest man ever to serve as President.

The oldest was William Henry Harrison, 68, who died a month after his inauguration in 1841

Lehman noted that men both younger than Roosevelt and older than Harrison have been nominated for the office, but none has been elected.

Youngest man in the political lineup this year is Harold Stassen, 45. Barkley is the oldest.

Ages of other contenders are: Estes Kefauver, 49; Brian McMahon, 49; Adlai Stevenson, 52; Richard Russell, 55; Robert S. Kerr, 56; Averell Harriman, 61; Earl Warren, 61; Sam Rayburn, 70.

Humane Society Seeks Less-Cruel Mousetrap

ALBANY, N. Y., July 5—(AP)—The American Humane Association wants a better mousetrap—and it's willing to pay a $10,000 reward for one.

The Association, a federation of over 600 local societies for the protection of animals and children, today increased to $10,000 its offer of a reward for a small-animal trap that it would consider "humane."

The previous offer was $500.

Mel L. Morse of Albany, executive director, said the reward was offered to spur inventors to find a substitut for the steel traps now commonly used, which he called cruel.

Five Burned By 'Crackers Here Over 4th

Three Others Hurt In Car Accidents; None Is Serious

Casualties and injuries from the July 4th celebrations were very few in Sedalia this year with only seven people reported to have received treatment at local hospitals for burns and accidents.

The property damage to business establishments and residential homes was also very light.

Mrs. Betty McFarland, 1004 West 16th, was given treatment at the Bothwell Hospital for second degree burns on her legs and then was returned to her home.

Lee Ferguson, Belleville, Ill., was treated at the Bothwell Hospital for minor burns on his index finger. He was released after treatment.

Albert Dove, 411 North Hurd, was treated for burns on the left thumb at the Bothwell Hospital and was then returned to his home.

Jimmy Erch, 1016 East 16th, was given emergency treatment for an injury on his lower lip, which he received when he fell from a swing at Liberty Park. He also was returned home from Bothwell Hospital.

Shirley Bennett, 518 West Second, was treated at the Bothwell Hospital for injuries received by an exploding firecracker at Teen-Town Wednesday evening.

2 Hurt in Car Wreck

Ray Young, 45, of Kansas City, Mo., was given emergency treatment at Hospital No. 2, after suffering injuries to his right elbow and forearm in an accident 12 miles north on Highway 65.

Young was driving a 1937 Plymouth sedan which skidded off the road, damaging the car slightly. Solomon Mills, Kansas City, Kan., who was also riding in the Young car, suffered abrasions on the left shoulder. He was also treated at Hospital No. 2.

Young, who was treated by Dr. A. R. Maddox, was released to his home Friday afternoon.

Police reported they were not notified of any property damage over the vacation period.

An awning on the front of the Yunker and Lierman Drug Store was damaged by an exploding firecracker some time Friday. The awning, which was rolled up at the time, was torn in several places where the explosion ripped the canvas.

Bruised in Accident

Mrs. Audrey Abney, 1906 South Stewart, received bruises on her legs when the car driven by her husband, Lloyd Abney, was in collision with a car driven by Claude Ross Jr., Warrensburg, at State Fair Boulevard and 11th. The accident occurred about 5 p.m. Friday.

Ross was driving north, as was Abney, who was behind the Ross car. According to the police report, Abney's car bumped into the rear of Ross' car. Abney said Ross stopped suddenly because of the line of traffic.

Not too great damage resulted to either vehicle.

GOP Candidates Set For Chicago Struggle

Chiefs Alter Party Plank On Air Power

CHICAGO, July 5—(AP)—Republican platform drafters, at the insistence of Eisenhower forces, were reported tonight to have agreed to "tone down" a proposed national defense plank stressing a sharp expansion in air power.

This action was taken, top-ranking platform leaders said, after Rep. Christian Herter of Massachusetts, Eisenhower watchdog on the drafting committee, had raised questions about the plank.

As written, it had raised the threat of a break in the heretofore harmonious effort of the resolutions committee to come up with a statement of principles acceptable to the major candidates for the Presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower himself, at a news conference, confirmed reports of others that the platform on foreign policy appeared to be shaping up fairly well to his satisfaction. He said he understood it embraced the general's views.

The general conferred late in the day with the chief draftsman of this plank, John Foster Dulles.

Eisenhower has opposed placing "too much" reliance on air power to thwart expansion of Communism.

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, chief rival of Eisenhower for the nomination, has advocated a greatly expanded air force and less reliance on land armies.

Eisenhower has said that if the U. S. fell back on air power, such action might dishearten other freedom-loving countries in Europe who are depending on U. S. aid to help build an international force against aggression.

The defense plank made no recommendations on universal military training—a measure favored strongly by Eisenhower in the past. While still standing by his position, the general said in a news conference it is not now "a momentous issue." He said it would be difficult to devise a program to fit both the nation's long-term needs and the present state of emergency.

Eisenhower declined to be drawn into a commitment at the news conference on whether he favored repudiation of the Yalta agreements.

Farm Price Authority Switched

Meanwhile, platform drafters, i a declared move to take f rm pro'lems out of politics, propose to strip the politically-appointed Secretary of Agriculture of powers to fix farm prices and other policies.

Instead, such policies would be determined by a non-partisan board, operating in the farm field much in the manner that the present federal reserve board sets banking and other monetary policies.

A recommendation for this drastic governmental change has been made to the convention's resolutions committee by a subgroup on agriculture.

The subcommittee said it was prompted to take this stand because of the "extreme lengths" to which the present Democratic Secretary of Agriculture, Charles A. Brannan, has gone to make farm issues "political footballs to catch farm votes."

BPW Board to Meet

The Business and Professional Women's board meeting will be held at the public library Monday night.

Fine Reportedly Set To Back Eisenhower

PITTSBURGH, July 5—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph reported tonight that Pennesylvania Republican leaders supporting Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the GOP Presidential nomination "have received assurances from Gov. (John S) Fine which convinced them the governor will throw his support to General Eisenhower."

The Sun-Telegraph said it is estimated that 50 to 55 of Pennsylvania's delegates would follow the governor in such a move. It added, however, the report has not been confirmed by Fine.

Strife Kills Festive Air At Convention

CHICAGO, July 5—(AP)—The air in Chicago today is heavy with bitterness.

On Monday morning, the thousands of Republicans who have been crowding into the city during t past week get down to the deadly-serious business of nominating a candidate for the Presidency. Another national political convention is about to begin.

And this is what people—the partisans and neutrals alike—are asking:

"Was there ever a convention that started like this?"

A national convention, normally, is a kind of carnival, a Mardis Gras with a purpose. People put on caps and buttons and badges. They mill around in hotel corridors with buzzers and cow-bells, and crowd the bars and restaurants, trading wisecracks like college boys on the night before a football game.

They have a very good time. Even the paid professionals tend to look on the whole panorama with a certain indulgence, although they stand to win or lose a great deal.

There's Little Gaiety

There is relatively little of that atmosphere here today.

The heat and aggravation stirred by the straight-out contest between Sen. Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower is fierce and desperate. Both sides are playing this convention for all there is in it. This is a fight to the death.

Possibly, this is because only two men appear, at this point anyway, to have a chance for the nomination.

In 1948, there were at least four—Dewey, Taft, Stassen and Warren. And on the fringes of the contest, so to speak, were the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Consequently, the partisan feelings, which are as inflamable as high octane, were diffused during the pre-convention period.

It is not like that today.

Fists Have Flown

There have been fist-fights in the Conrad Hilton Ho..l, where both Taft and Eisenhower have their headquarters.

The other night, some young Republicans came to serenade Taft, and then went up to floors into Eisenhower's headquarters, chanting "We want Taft. . . We want Taft."

The people who are working for Eisenhower stormed out of their offices, mobbed the youngsters, and threw them bodily down the stairs.

Ike Promises He Won't Quit His Big Fight

CHICAGO, July 5—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft stormed into this convention city today for their toe-to-toe struggle for the GOP Presidential nomination.

The general ripped off a promise that "I will never give up" in the battle for the nomination in the Republican National Convention that opens Monday.

The Ohio Senator pledged that he will go "all-out" himself for the big prize.

But rank and file delegates who swarmed into town with the main combatants were wondering openly whether the bitterness generated in the Taft-Eisenhower battle would endanger chances for victory in November.

Here and there, however, there was talk of efforts to restore some sort of harmony within the warring GOP. Arthur Summerfield, national committeeman from Michigan, said, in fact, that he and Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania have been working in that direction.

"Gov. Fine and L would like to see a new note of harmony developed here that is very badly needed," Summerfield told a news conference.

Warren Seeks Harmony

And Gov. Earl Warren of California, an outside contender for the Presidential nomination, rode in from the coast declaring himself more interested in Republican harmony than in anything else.

"I'm the only candidate who doesn't guarantee his nomination," Warren said.

Another hopeful, former Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, wasn't so sure of his chances either. But he told a reporter he thinks both Eisenhower and Taft may "fall short" of the nomination on early ballots, leaving the way open for their supporters to flock to him.

Stassen coined a new campaign slogan pitched to that strategy: "Unite and Win With Stassen." Stassen arrived on the convention scene last night.

Today, the arrivals were Eisenhower, Taft and Warren, in that order. And each man had to fight his way through mobs of friendly rooters, toss off a speech or two, or issue a statement, or hold a news conference.

There were bands and hand and parades from airport or station to convention headquarters or other downtown hotels. The Taft people produced a baby elephant on the sidewalk outside the Conrad-Hilton Hotel. It got away once from his handler but soon was back in tow.

Inside the Conrad-Hilton, Eisenhower, Taft and Stassen opened up elaborate headquarters where their supporters can pick up buttons, literature and a shot of enthusiasm. Warren had a not quite so fancy spot.

That was all part of the annual convention drama that takes place every four years.

GOP Not Cock-Sure

This time, in contrast with the atmosphere in Philadelphia four years ago, there is little of the cock-sure spirit among the Republican legions that this is "our" year.

For the party is split. Raw wounds have been opened by the toughest kind of pre-convention in-fighting within the memory of most GOP partisans. And it was still going furiously on.

The rival Eisenhower and Taft camps sprayed more scalding statements round.

The general himself arrived on the scene with friendly words and warm grins for hordes of welcoming supporters. But he was boiling at opposition tactics.

For the soldier turned politician, it was "another D-Day," in what he called a fight for "clean politics." And in the battle for the nomination, Eisenhower promised, "I shall never give up."

Seven Democrat Chiefs Urge Platform Based On New Deal

By The Associated Press

Seven Democratic Senators spoke out yesterday (Saturday) for a party platform based on the principles of Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman, and taken to the country by "a fighting liberal."

They did not suggest any particular Presidential candidate, but said the nominee must be some one who will not compromise on any of the fundamental issues of the new deal and fair deal.

"We have a number of such outstanding Democrats to choose from," the Senators said in a statement.

Signing the declaration were Senators James E. Murray of Montana, Herbert H. Lehman of New York, John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Warren G. Magnuson of Washington, Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia and William Benton of Connecticut, all identified with what they called the liberal wing of the Democratic party.

The seven said the people are entitled to a choice "between a fighting, forward-looking Presidential candidate and any man who represents the reactionary forces of the Republican party."

Humphrey Seeks Audit

Earlier yesterday, Humphrey called for an audit of campaign spending by Presidential candidates, urging Congress not to allow "a price tag to be placed on the Presidency."

The Minnesota Democrat, himself a "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic nomination, announced he was introducing a bill to provide for an immediate Senate inquiry into the financial aspects of Presidential campaigning by both major parties.

But with Congress rushing headlong toward adjournment, there was little chance that Humphrey's resolution would be acted on at this session.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee continued his mid-western swing, leaving Iowa to drum up support in appearances at Buckston, Minn., and Montevideo, Minn. today.

Averell Harriman had a Monday date with Indiana's Democratic delegates at Indianapolis. He was in Minnesota yesterday.

The State Department announced the Voice of America will report the Republican and Democratic nominations to overseas listeners as "an example of democracy in action."

At the national convention of the Progressive Party in Chicago, former congressman Vito Marcantonio of New York asserted that President Truman wants civil rights "only as an issue" and not a a law.

A faction of Mississipi Democrats loyal to President Truman convened at Jackson to elect a slate of delegates which will go to Chicago later this month and fight for the convention seats now claimed by the regular states rights group.

The loyalists are committed to t nominee and platform adopted at the Chicago convention beginning July 21. They are similar to the group which stood by Truman in 1948 after the regular Mississippi party bolted in protest against the civil rights plank.

Knob Noster Bond Issue For Sewers Carries By 15 To 1

The bond issue for a new sanitary sewer system at Knob Noster was voted Thursday, carrying 15 to 1. The total cost of the program will be $103,000 with Knob Noster putting up $45,000 and a federal grant making up the difference.

Originally the election had been scheduled for June 17, but was postponed because of a legal technicality.

The increased population due to th reactivation of the Sedalia Air Force Base, south of Knob Noster, and the new housing going up, prompted the action of getting a sewer system in Knob Noster.

BERLIN, July 5—(AP)—A 300-pound Russian bomb from World War II was unearthed today by workmen at the spot where U. S. Secretary of State Acheson dedicated the American Memorial Library in West Berlin a week ago.

Berlin munitions experts, who took charge of the bomb, said it was live and could have exploded at any time.

Holiday Deaths Race Headlong Toward Record

(By The Associated Press)

The nation's 4th of July week end death toll soared toward a new record Saturday night.

With one day of the long holiday remaining, violent deaths from all causes reached 432. Traffic mishaps killed 255. Drowning victims numbered 131. Only two deaths were attributed to fireworks. But 44 other deaths were reported from miscellaneous accidents.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, commented "It looks as if we are headed for an all time high in 4th of July holiday traffic deaths." The council had predicted 430 traffic deaths during the holiday period.

Dearborn asked that drivers abroad this week-end "donate 10 minutes" toward holding down the toll. "Use the extra time to take it easy: He said. "You'll feel better when you get there. More important, you'll get there."

The toll by states (traffic, drowning, fireworks and miscellaneous) included:

Arkansas 3 2 1 2, Colorado 6 1 0 0, Illinois 13 13 0 2, Iowa 6 3 0 0, Kansas 2 4 0 0, Missouri 7 1 0 1, Nebraska 1 1 0 0, Oklahoma 6 3 0 0.

The accident reportedly occurred when Edwards' car, a late model Hudson, slipped off the highway onto the shoulder and, while pulling back on the pavement collided with a passing truck.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Sweet Springs Christian Church with the Rev. Gilbert Yerian officiating.

Burial will be in the Fairview Cemetery.

Oats, Soybeans Hold In Weak Grain Trade

CHICAGO, July 5—(AP)—Wheat and corn eased from the opening bell on the Board of Trade today and never were able to work up a rally. Oats, however, held quite firm, as did old crop soybean contracts.

Heavy receipts of cash grain depressed wheat. Good weather for growing corn was a bearish influence on that cereal. Some southern territories received much-needed moisture over Jul. 4. Oats held up in view of reports of minor crop damage.

Wheat finished 3/8 to 1 1/4 cent lower, corn 5/8 to 1 1/8 cent lower, oats 1/4 lower to 1/4 cent higher, rye 1 to 1 3/4 cent lower and soybeans 3/4 lower to 1/4 cent higher.

For the week wheat was 1 1/8 to 1 5/8 cent higher, corn unchanged to 5/8 cent lower, oats 5/8 to 1 7/8 cent rye 1 1/2 to 4 1/4 cent lower and soybeans unchanged to 2 1/2 cents higher.

Wheat sank to another new low on this year's crop on Monday, but mills finally came to the support of the market the following day. Their buying reflected sales of flour to bakers. Export business remained dull.

Welch Says Donnelly Did Little To Solve 1946 KC Ballot Theft

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 5—(AP)—Congressman Phil J. Welch has accused his opponent for the Democratic nomination for governor of doing little to solve the theft of ballots from the Kansas City Courthouse six years ago.

Welch called the theft during Phil Donnelly's administration "one of the greatest political steals in the history of the United States."

He said in an Independence Day speech here that the Donnelly-appointed Kansas City election board did nothing when the ballots were stolen on the eve of an election investigation.

Welch said Donnelly was seeking the nomination on the basis of appointments he had made as governor, but had failed to mention the ballot theft.

Also at the rally, Mayor Stanley I. Dale, seeking the Republican governorship nomination, charged that Welch was supported principally by the St. Louis-Shanker-Callanan machine.

Silence Hangs Over All Korea

SEOUL, Sunday, July 6—(AP)—Only occasional rifle shots echoed over the Korean battlefront early this morning. A U. S. Eighth Army staff officer said action was the lighest in two months.

Fifth Air Force light bombers last night attacked Communist supply routes and frontline positions. Pilots claimed 22 Red trucks destroyed.

Small patrol actions flared across the peninsula Saturday after Allied infantrymen defending "Old Baldy" on the western front hurled back another Communist pre-dawn assault. The Reds attacked the high ground behind heavy artillery support.

U. S. Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers again plastering Communist rear area troop concentrations and supply arteries Sunday. Sleek F-86 Sabrejets, flying protective cover father northwest, reported spotting four Russian-built MIGs but no dogfights.

The Air Force disclosed that Friday's secret target of a mass bombing raid near the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria was a North Korean officers training school. The base, left in flaming ruin, was described as "a key complex" in the Communist military set-up.

Despite Moans Of Golfers, New Rules Insure Fair Play

Golfers in Sedalia, and many other parts of the nation, have found their scores mounting this year due to a new interpretation of the out-of-bounds and the unplayable lie rules.

In past seasons the penalty for these situations has, in most places, been one stroke, but this season, through the efforts of the United States Golf Association, the penalty has been raised to two strokes in order to standardize play throughout the country.

Despite the many complaints this rule is fair. To illustrate the following information and explanation is printed through the courtesy of the USGA under the title, "Uniformity in the Rules—or 'Jungle Law'?"

If the new world-wide Rules of Golf are to have real meaning, they must be observed uniformly by players and committees.

This is the only way in which fair play can be had. The aim of the Rules is to produce fair play.

Any departure from uniformity would produce unfairness. Committees sometimes are tempted to adopt local rules which conflict with the basic Rules of Golf or which "soften" penalties. This is a pitfall to be avoided, for it could have a number of unfortunate results, among them the following:

1. The interrelation among the Rules would be distorted. The Rules are so closely integrated and dovetailed that serious departure from one Rule would automatically throw the code as a whole out of balance.

2. Scores would tend to be lower and therefore handicaps would be lower for the players affected. Thus, their handicaps would be out o line with handicaps of players whose observe the Rules as written. Play under "soft" local rules would ultimately put the players at a disadvantage.

3. There would be a general lowering of standards and diminished respect for Rules of orderly procedure. This would result in unfairness, a tendency toward "jungle law" of very man for himself, and eventually chaos in the conduct of play.

A tendency to depart from the uniform Rules should be regarded a a danger signal. Sometimes it indicates a deeper need—a need to make architectural changes in the course, or changes in the manner of upkeep. It it is desired to ease the course, the root of the trouble should be probed. But changing the Rules by local amendment is no proper substitute for changing the course.

Abuses Under "Soft" Penalties

The dove-tailing of the Rules is perhaps most strikingly illustrated by Rule 29 relating to a ball lost, unplayable or out of bounds.

In the past there have been unfortunate experiments with a penalty of loss of distance only for a ball lost or unplayable.

In the case of a possible lost ball, under such a penalty there often would be no incentive for a selfish player to make an honest search. He simply might prefer not to find his ball if it were apt to be in an a vocious lie. He thus could look in the wrong places and otherwise abuse the discretion which such a "soft" penalty would allow him.

The same would be essentially true of an unplayable ball. When a local rule provided a penalty of loss of distance only, a player once had a two-foot putt on a fast green, on a windy day. The ball missed the hole and slid ten feet past. The player deemed the ball unplayable and, under the penalty of distance only, replaced it where it originally lay. He thus had his old two-foot putt instead of the ten-footer.

Further, suppose a ball were lying well on grass 15 yards from the hole, with a bunker intervening. The player flubs his shot into sand in the bunker. If he feels inexpert in playing from sand, and if the unplayable penalty were distance only, he could merely drop the ball back on the turf where it first lay, and he would have the next shot to play from grass instead of sand. The distance lost would be inconsequential.

On a par-3 hole, assume that the player's tee shot strays into woods. Although the ball lies well, the player is blocked out from the green. He elects to deem the ball unplayable and returns to the tee for another try, playing 2 under the distance-only penalty.

Suppose in simila. circumstances that the player has played a provisional ball from the tee before going forward to appraise the situation. If the provisional ball is on the green and within reasonable putting distance, the player would be quick to choose to play that ball under the distance-only penalty.

It is obvious that severe inequities can be produced by a distance-only penalty for a ball lost or unplayable. It is equally obvious that such a rule could allow golf to degenerate into a game of "replay", in which the player could try over any stroke he didn't like and lose nothing more than that stroke. This could slow up the game and change its basic nature.

The only feasible way to safeguard against such consequences is to have a basic penalty of stroke and distance for a ball lost or unplayable—that is, for example, if the player's first stroke be lost or deemed unplayable, he returns to the place from which he played it, adds a penalty stroke to his score, and plays 3 from that location. Rule 29 so provides.

Ball Out Of Bounds

Now granted that the basic penalty for a ball lost or unplayable must be stroke and distance, how about a ball out of bounds?

Consider a case in which Smith plays Green at match play. Smith's drive fetches up in an unplayable lie. He elects to return to the tee and proceed under a stroke-and-distance penalty, playing 3.

Green, his opponent, hits his drive out of bounds. If the penalty for a ball out of bounds were loss of distance only, Green would return to the same tee and play 2.

Thus, Smith, whose first shot was on the course but unplayable, would play 3 off the tee, whereas Green, whose first shot was off the course (theoretically the worst shot that could be made), would play 2 from the same tee.

When the penalties are dissimila. and a ball is lost near a boundary, there often is a tendency to declare, without proper search, that the ball is out of bounds (if the penalty is distance only) instead of lost (stroke and distance). Such doubtful cases are almost impossible to adjudicate fairly. They have created problems which ought never arise in golf.

It is plain to see why the penalty for a ball out of bounds has now been changed in the new code to stroke and distance—see Rule 29-1. It is equally plain why a note to the Rules provides:

"The penalty stroke provided for in Rule 29-1 may not be remitted by Local Rule."

Boatner Wins Full Control Of Koje Camp

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP) — A tough, Chinese-speaking American general has given the Western world a lesson in Oriental psychology on Koje Island.

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner apparently has won uncontested control over the tumultuous prison camp in less than one month.

Communist prisoners so defiant they once kidnapped the American commandant and threatened to capture the island now are being sorted into smaller compounds without benefit of headlines.

Boatner used the one language that his prisoners understood—force. The Communists, grown arrogant on leniency, tried defiance, then capitulated quickly when they saw they were overpowered.

This doesn't mean the hard-core Communist prisoners have changed their views or abandoned hope of becoming strong again. It means they followed the usual pattern of giving up when the odds turned against them, hoping for a better chance later.

That is why classic Oriental military strategy is to encircle an enemy force so it will quit, instead of trying to annihilate it. This, in reverse, may explain some of the strange story of truce negotiations.

The Chinese evidently never were beaten sufficiently to bow to the inevitable at Panmunjom. As they grew stronger during twilight war, the chances for peace based on a military decision grew slimmer. They appear to rest now much more on political considerations.

Now the Boatner lesson may be under study for wider application. Tokyo military circles said the recent heavy American attack on Yalu River power plants, cutting electricity to war activities, was more likely to stimulate truce talks than, as the British said, to jeopardize them.

At any rate, Koje is a capsule example of an Oriental truism centuries old—force rules, and softness only invites defiance.

Yugoslavs Assail Pro-Russians

BELGRADE (AP) — Communistic Yugoslavia may crack down soon on political refugees — particularly those from Italy—who shirk work in this country or spread pro-Russian propaganda.

It as directed against both those who have fled the iron-fist Russian rule of the neighboring Soviet satellites and "especially" against refugees from Italy opposed to the administration of Prime Minister Alcide De Gasperi.

Danes Ignore US; May Send Ship To USSR

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 5 (AP)—A sleek new Danish-built tanker, with a gilt hammer and sickle on her funnel and a Russian crew aboard, was reported ready to sail for Russia at a moment's notice today despite U. S. protests.

An urgently summoned Cabinet meeting failed today to solve the crisis in Danish-American relations. The touchy problem was referred to a meeting of the leaders of Denmark's non-Communist parties Monday.

The absence of Premier Erik Eriksen from the meeting stimulated renewed speculation that a serious split had developed in the government.

Eriksen, leader of the Agrarian party, is reported to consider that the tanker deal is closed, while Foreign Minister Ole Bjoern Kraft, conservative chieftain in the coalition Cabinet, is inclined to discuss the case with the United States at least.

The issue broke into the open this week when it was learned that the United States had protested against delivery of the 13,000-ton tanker, Apsheron, to Russia and threatened to cut off further aid to Denmark under the mutual military assistance program.

Tankers are high on the list of strategic materials banned to Iron Curtain countries under the U. S. military assistance law.

The first protests were delivered through the U. S. ambassador, Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, who suggested to Kraft that a Cabinet meeting be called to consider the protest. Premier Eriksen, on vacation in Norway, turned down the suggestion.

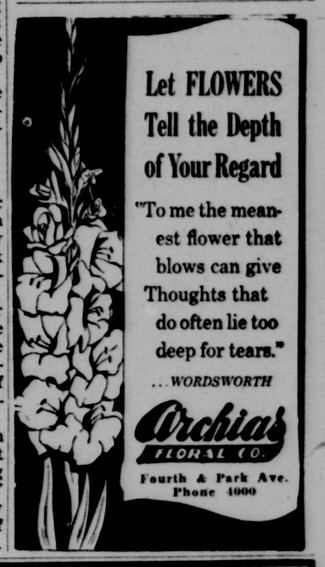

But Kraft, the acting Premier in Eriksen's absence, went to London where he conferred with U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson last week, and on his return summoned a Cabinet meeting. Only four members attended today. Eriksen, who had been scheduled to attend, did not show up.

Two Years Ago Saturday First Yanks In War

SEOUL (AP)—Two years ago today a small, ill-equipped band of GI's fired the first American shots—and lost their first battle—in the Korean War.

There were less than 400 men in that first group, the vanguard of thousands to come. They rushed from Japan to face a vastly larger and tank-supported column of North Korean Reds, streaming south from the captured capitol of Seoul.

The GIs took their first stand in the hills near Osan, about 30 miles south of Seoul. They had rushed there from Taejon Airfield in old buses, charcoal-burning taxis and other assorted vehicles.

"Anything we could find that would run," a survivor recalled later.

The reds hit just before dawn.

The Americans dug in and fought back.

But it was a hopeless battle for B and C companies of the 21st Infantry Regiment and a battery of the 52nd Field Artillery Battalion.

The Korean Reds swarmed over and through the GI's, whose outmoded bazooka shells bounced off the Communist tanks like rubber balls.

About half the Americans escaped. All the artillery pieces were lost. The survivors withdrew to hills farther south and made another unsuccessful stand. Other soldiers of the 24th Division joined them but there just weren't enough.

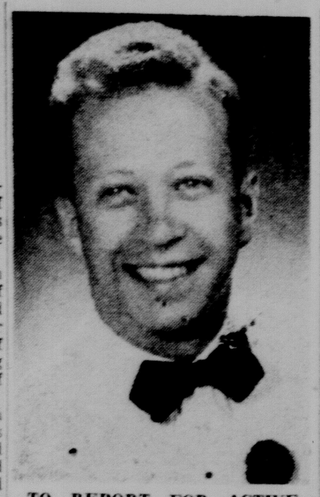

Slowly the Reds drove them southward on "Heartbreak Highway."

At Taejon the Reds captured their division commander, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean.

Finally they were squeezed into the tiny Pusan Perimeter. They stood and held.

In the months that followed the Allied forces grew. They burst out of the pocket, swept to the Manchurian border, were beaten back, and then surged forward again.

Now the battlelines are but 50 miles by air from the brown hills of Osan. The men who fought that first battle and lived have left Korea.

Walks to Wind Clock, Walks to Get Paid

IXWORTH, Eng. (AP)—Every night for the past 14 years, Horace Hayward has climbed the 29 steps of the church tower here to wind the village clock.

That's nearly 150,000 steps.

What's more, Horace had to get up his own pay by making a house-to-house collection.

He got tired of all this and asked the Rural District Council to pay him a regular salary of five shillings (70 cents) a week.

The Council met yesterday and said no, it was sorry, but it had no power to charge taxpayers for clockwinding.

So Horace will go wearily on, climbing the 29 steps, winding the clock and then walking an uncounted number of steps to collect his own pay.

Teachers at NEA Urge No Public Funds For Private Schools

DETROIT (AP)—Some 3,500 teacher delegates to the National Education Association's 90th annual convention today urged that no public funds be used for support of private or parochial schools.

The delegates on a voice vote approved a Resolution Committee proposal that the "American tradition of separation of church and state should be vigorously and zealously guarded."

The resolution said the NEA "respects and upholds the rights of groups, including religious denominations, to maintain their own schools financed entirely by their supporters so long as such schools meet educational, health and safety standards set by the states."

The convention, after some debate, tabled another resolution calling for "severe criticism" of the American Legion for an article which appeared in the legion's magazine last month.

Mrs. Sarah C. Caldwell of Akron, O., was elected president of the NEA for 1952-53 at the group's closing session today.

Miss Anita Rose Isgur Bride of Mr. Richard Rubins Sunday Afternoon In Ceremony at Temple Beth El

Beneath a canopy of white organdy edged with a fringed effect of pink carnations and babies - breath, Miss Anita Rose Isgur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Isgur, 906 West Third, became the bride of Mr. Richard Allen Rubins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rubins, 2215 East Meyer Boulevard, Kansas City, Mo., in Temple Beth El, Broadway and Missouri at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Sunday, June 29. The four posts holding the canopy were entwined with smilax, pink carnations and babies-breath and on either side were palms and baskets of pastel flowers. The white altar cloth covered the altar and white satin bows marked the pews for the families of the couple.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Rabbi Marshall Miller of Kansas City, Kan.

Mrs. Edythe Ross, at the organ, played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Jack Herndon, soprano, who sang "Because" and "I Love Thee".

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and ivory satin. The fitted bodice of lace was designed with long sleeves. A panel of lace was down the front of the full satin skirt and lace panels in the back extended to the end of the circular aisle wide train. Her fingertip veil cascaded from a bonnet type hat of lace and seed pearls and she carried a white Bible to which was attached a white orchid.

Miss Anita Rose Robinson of Houston, Texas, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Sheldon Posnock of Linden, N. J., sorority sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore identical gowns of pale blue nylon net over taffeta with shoulder stole. Their shoes were dyed to match their gowns and they carried bouquets of majestic daisies in pastel shades with pink predominating.

Miss Therese Ross, Seattle, Wash., and Miss Rita Robinson of Houston, Texas, cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids and Sheilah Isgur, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. The three wore gowns of pale pink nylon net over taffeta, ballerina length, with shoulder stoles and shoes dyed to match their dresses. The predominating color of their bouquets of pastel majestic daisies was blue.

Mr. Paul Gohen of Kansas City, fraternity brother of the bridegroom served as best man and Mr. Herbie Halpern, Memphis, Tenn., also a fraternity brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman.

Ushers were Mr. Art Phillips, Des Moines, Ia., Mr. Sheldon Posnock, Linden, N. J., fraternity brother, and Mr. Jack Isgur of this city, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding the mother of the bride selected a light gray lace dress, ballerina length, which was worn over gray net and lace and her shoes were of matching shade. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a ballerina length dress of champagne lace over taffeta of the same shade and her shoes were dyed to match. Both mothers wore corsages of purple orchids.

A dinner was served for members of the family following the ceremony.

At 8:30 Sunday evening a reception was held in the Ambassador Room of Bothwell Hotel.

Centering the bride's table was a four tier wedding cake with pink frosting roses in blue tulle carrying out the colors of the bridesmaids' dresses. Adorning the top was a miniature bride and bridegroom under an arbor on which were fresh flowers. Four bouquets of pastel flowers were at intervals along the table.

Serving were Mrs. Abe Silverman, Mrs. Ed Zalin and Mrs. Harry Kanter.

Miss Linda Rubin and Miss Beverly Miller, in identical organdy dresses, had charge of the guest book.

During the evening guests danced to the music of a four piece orchestra composed of Mrs. Nellie Monegan at the piano, Mrs. Donald Donath and Miss Shirley Kirkpatrick, violinists, and Mr. Jake Saragusa, bass viol. Mr. Sam Cohen of Kansas City was soloist.

The bride is a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and the University of Missouri, Columbia, receiving her degree from the School of Journalism in 1952, and a member of Phi Sigma Sigma Social Sorority. She was included in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" and is a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Your Wardrobe

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

GOOD GROOMING IS not inherited, but acquired by rigid rules. It is something that you are never too young to start and never too old to relax from the rules. First learn to keep your skin well-scrubbed and never wear too much make-up. Your clothing should always be clean, with no rips—no safety pins to hold it together. Do not overdress as it is wiser to be underdressed. Remember it is not how much you spend on your wardrobe that makes you a well-dressed person, but how well you spend your money and the way you wear your cothes. Your hair is important in good grooming—keep it clean and wear it in a becoming style. Always keep abreast with new things, but don't go to the extreme with fadish trends.

If you need a chest of drawers to hold games, score pads, etc., on your porch or game room; which is furnished in cane or bamboo; pick up a small chest at a second hand store and cover the sides and drawer fronts with bamboo place mats. They can be tacked on with small tacks or even glued with furniture glue.

The top of the chest can also be covered with the mats; or a very colorful chinese paper glued on and given a coat of clear varnish is a good final touch for your unique piece of furniture.

Louisiana (15 votes, 13 in dispute) 11 for Taft, two for Eisenhower.

Men Who Made Republican Convention History

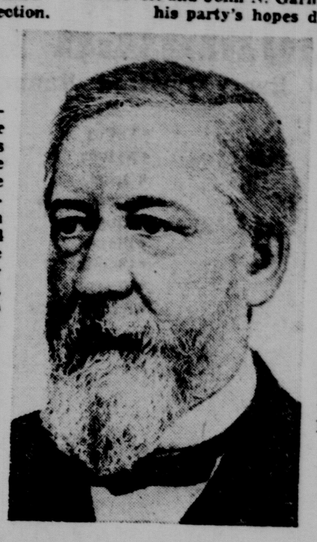

The most turbulent Republican convention was staged in Chicago in 1912. Tumult reigned as ex-President Theodore Roosevelt battled his former friend, President William Howard Taft, for the nomination. Taft men, however, had the upper hand and secured their chief's renomination. Angry Roosevelt followers then broke away from the ranks of the Republican regulars to form the Progressive, or "Bull Moose," Party and nominated their beloved T. R. Though Teddy Roosevelt, only other third-term candidate in history, lost the election, he successfully blocked Taft's re-election.

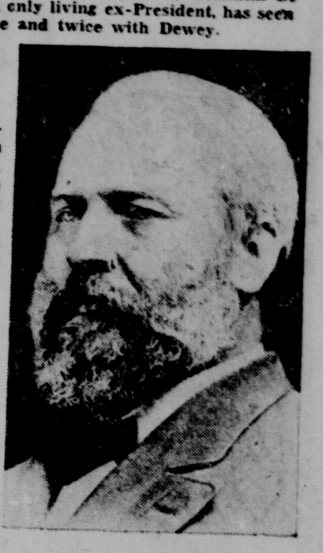

It has been 20 years since a Republican convention has produced an election winner. At the 1928 conclave at Kansas City, Mo.—only GOP convention held there—Herbert Hoover was named to the presidential nomination and Charles Curtis, the vice presidential candidacy. Four years after their victory over Democratic candidates Al Smith and Joseph T. Robinson, Hoover and Curtis were toppled by Franklin D. Roosevelt and John N. Garner. Since then, Hoover, only living ex-President, has seen his party's hopes die with Landon, Willkie and twice with Dewey.

The first Republican nominating convention was held in 1856 in Philadelphia on the anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill. The two-year-old political party, founded at Jackson, Mich., named dashing soldier and explorer John C. Fremont to the candidacy. The outlawing of polygamy and slavery in the territories was the convention's most important plank.

The Republican to exert the most influence at conventions was James G. Blaine, "the Man from Maine." He lost the 1876 convention by only seven votes, won the 1884 nomination, could have had the 1888 prize by acclamation and was a key contender at two other conclaves. Undaunted by the frustrations of his own political career, Blaine helped Garfield win a nomination and Hayes an election.

It was at the 1880 Republican convention in Chicago that James A. Garfield became the only election-winning candidate ever to witness the balloting that nominated him. Head of the Ohio delegation favoring John Sherman, Garfield protested loud and long when he received 17 votes on the 34th ballot. Though he would not consent to become a candidate, he was nominated four ballots later.

Blistering Challenge by Ike-men Against Taft Sets Stage for Row

By JACK BELL

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft's Texas-borne surge toward the Republican presidential nomination faced a blistering challenge today from supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The two major contenders, arriving here during the day, were ready to take over personal direction of a round-by-round battle in next week's convention for the 604 votes needed to give one of them the party's nomination.

Taft's chief lieutenants told a reporter they expect him to decide whether he will shoot the political works on an attempt to win a first ballot nomination.

J. Russell Sprague, New York national committeeman and an Eisenhower backer, predicted in an interview the general will win by a 50-vote margin a convention rules test on the question of barring disputed delegates from voting on the seating of contested groups.

For Taft, any such result would represent the first major setback in a week of pre-convention activities which has seen him — backed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and supported indirectly by former President Herbert Hoover—sweep to within 74 votes of the needed nomination total in The Associated Press tabulation.

This scoreboard includes contested delegates awarded to Taft by the Republican National Committee. Since the committee's decisions are being appealed, only the events of next week can determine just how high Taft's total will be.

As of now, the count showed: Taft 530, eisenhower 427, other candidates 131, still uncommitted 118.

The Ohioan increased his lead yesterday when the Republican National Committee voted 60 to 41 to accept the senator's personally-devised compromise of the explosive dispute over 38 Texas delegates.

Despite repeated cries by Eisenhower's supporters that a "steal" had been engineered in the Lone Star State, the committee voted to give Taft 22 of the delegates and assign 16 of them to Eisenhower.

This was exactly what Taft had proposed earlier in the day and what Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, national campaign manager for Eisenhower, had rejected as a "compromise with fraud."

Lodge, Sprague and other Eisenhower leaders made it clear quickly that they had only begun to fight. They said they will carry their high voltage protests to the Credentials Committee and to the convention floor itself.

This indicated it might be several days before the delegates would get around to voting on a nominee, with television cameras looking at the cast kept off the screens in yesterday's committee meeting.

The first big test in the convention battling will come on Lodge's proposal to bar any contested delegate from voting on any contest over a convention seat.

Sprague said the Eisenhower backers concede in advance they can't prevent the delegates seated temporarily by the National Committee from voting on this Lodge proposal.

All told the National Committee has handed down decision in 96 contests—and the bulk of the winners are for Taft. But Sprague said that even so the Lodge motion would carry by 50 votes.

This would put the Eisenhower forces in a much better position when the question of seating the contested delegates came up, first in the convention's Credentials Committee members from states where there are contests could not vote. Sprague said this, in effect, would change the complexion of the committee, giving Eisenhower a one-vote margin in it.

It would also improve the Eisenhower chances in the convention itself.

David S. Ingalls, Taft's national campaign manager, has said the Ohioan's backers don't wany any delegate to vote on his own seating. But they contend the contested delegations can vote on the seating of groups from other states.

The National Committee took the Taft compromise on Texas yesterday after rejecting, 58 to 43, a substitute motion to seat a pro-Eisenhower delegation from Texas.

Some votes were cast on that test that may forecast action on the nomination next week.

Engine of the Future May Be Lightweight Gas Turbine

SEATTLE, July 5 (AP) — A lightweight gas turbine engine is being groomed by the Boeing Aircraft Company as a future jack-of-all-trades in transport and industry.

It went on display in a big truck and trailer unit at the national Truck and Trailer Show at Los Angeles in mid-June after thousands of miles of highway testing and a border-to-border run.

Boeing describes it fondly as "The Engine of the Future."

Weighing only 200 pounds, it is an easy load for two men to carry, but it is rated at 175 horsepower.

Its sponsors say it can be removed and installed with tools you could carry in a coat pocket; one man can take it apart and put it together again in six hours.

It will run on diesel oil, kerosene or gasoline—on just about anything, as a Boeing quipster put it, except beer.

Miles per gallon? Not so good by comparison, but Boeing engineers say they are expecting better mileage with further research.

Its tests in a helicopter have been reported successful. boeing officials plan to try it in an airplane.

Present production is for the Navy, for use as electric generators in minesweepers. The Navy is testing it as a power plant for landing carft. It was developed as a bureau of ships project. There is no production of the engines for commercial use.

Boeing engineers have predicted its feasibility as a stationary power plant.

It is an adaptation of the Jet Airplane Engine principle. In a Jet plane, the power comes from the thrust of the escaping gas itself. In the new-type engine, the gas spins a turbine—like water spins a turbine to make electricity—and the resulting power turns a shaft.

Boeing, the firm famed for big bombers and airliners, lists the following as some of the engine's features:

It occupies only about 13 per cent of the space of a standard diesel truck engine; it needs no radiator or cooling system; it has only one-tenth as many parts as comparable gasoline and diesel engines of the piston-drive type; it is at least 3,000 pounds lighter than diesel truck engines of equal power.

The widest interest has been in the truck-trailer unit which has undergone two years of testing. Drivers said it drew attention all along the route of the recent border-to-border 60-hour run. Windows on each side of the big truck's hood exposed the tiny power plant but it looked like it was running with no engine at all.

Henry C. Hill, Assistant Chief Engineer of the Boeing Gas Turbine Division, reports the test truck averaged only a little better than one mile a gallon on diesel fuel, compared with three to five miles a gallon for conventional truck engines. That was with total test load weight of 34 tons.

He adds, however, that if a truck were designed to make use of the lighter, smaller engine, with a resulting increase in pay load, the net return of an operator would be about the same as with standard diesel trucks.

He also predicts a reduction of 30 to 35 per cent in the future in fuel consumption.

"This sounds like quite a development chore," he said, "but we are happy to report that means for this gain appear to be near at hand as a result of successful research work."

Brown To Start For Locals

Chiefs Will Play League All-Stars Here Wednesday

The Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs, champions of the first half of the CEMO League, will meet with the league all-stars Wednesday night at Liberty Park. Game time is scheduled for 8 p.m. The Chiefs will start manager Bobby Brown on the hill with John Cochran behind the plate.

The champs, who have an 8-2 record for the first half of the season play, will start the All-Star game with a team batting average of .277. They have collected 101 base hits in 365 times at bat and smashed out 27 extra base hits, including 18 doubles, six triples and three home runs—a little more than one fourth their hits going for extra bases.

Bill Holst leads the Chiefs in the batting with a .448 average; he also had the most extra base hits six-four doubles, one triple and a home run. Holst scored 12 runs and knocked in eight as he received 13 hits for 29 trips to the plate in the first half.

Don Broaddus and Bob Lane follow with averages of .412 and .410 respectively. Broaddus got 14 for 34 and Lane connected for 16 out of 39. Broaddus made three extra base hits, one double, a triple and a home run, while Lane received two extra base knocks, a double and a triple. Broaddus lead the Chiefs in the RBI department with 12 and scored ten runs. Lane leads the team in runs scored with 13, drove in eight runs and also leads in hits.

The All-Stars will consist of players from all teams in the CEMO Ban John League except Sedalia, who as champion must have a full team to clash with the All-Stars.

The starting lineup for the All-Stars and a run down on the players is as follows: First base—Bob Timmons, Brookfield, a fancy Dan around the initial sack who is also a good timely sticker; Second base—Bill Cleary, Boonville, beat the Chiefs all by himself in the last league game for the Sedalians as he collected two hits and scored the only run of the game; Third base—Foster Tekotte, Columbia, a good fielder and clutch hitter; Shortstop—Ed Patterson, Moberly, one of the best fielding infielders in the lergue and sturdy hitter aiding the Miners to move into second place in the league.

In the outfield the All-Stars will be strong with Cal Voegtle, Moberly, in left field leading the league in home runs with four; John Keith, Mexico, in right field, one of the best fielders and stickers in the league and Bob Bishop, Moberly, in center field, who will probably be the team captain as this is his third on the All-Stars. He was also leading the league in batting for a long time and has an arm like a rifle.

Catching for the All-Stars will be Kenny Retzer, Mexico, who was their big gun at the plate and a sound defensive player.

The Chiefs pitching will be hard. They will have Manager Bob Brown to start, Bill Arnold for the middle three frames, and Jack Barnes, ace relief, to finish up. For the All-Stars it will be Norm Iverson, Moberly; Djb Hill, Mexico; Bill Moore, Boonville and Kenny Kellogg, Moberly.

The Chiefs have beaten all these hurlers except Iverson, and they have not seen him in action.

The starting lineup for the Chiefs is Sonny Thomas, 2b; Don "Flash" Higgins, 1b; Bill "Harry" Dey, rf.; Bill "Atto" Holst, lf; John "Sal" Weist, 3b; Bob "Rocky" Lane ss; John "Stud" Cochran, c; Don "Dud" Broaddus, cf; and Bob "Windy" Brown, p.

Saigh Claims He Got Cards On Tax Quirk

ST. LOUIS, July 5 — (AP) — The Post-Dispatch quoted Fred M. Saigh as saying today a "gimmick in the lax law" made it posible for Saigh and the late Robert E. Hannegan to purchase the St. Louis Cardinals.

The newspaper also quoted the baseball club owner as saying "not a cent of actual cash of mine or Hannegan's went into the purchase."

Saigh, when asked about the story, would not confirm or deny it, saying that he would have to read the story before commenting.

The deal was brought to congressional attention yesterday by Sen. Williams (R-Del) who filed a statement for the Congressional Record that the Internal Revenue Bureau apparently did not check closely enough on the transaction.

The newspaper quoted Saigh as saying the "gimmick" involved the transfer of 2½ million dollars of surplus money in the baseball club to the newly formed National Sports, Inc.

"Surplus funds passing from one corporation to another are taxed only at the rate of about 7 per cent, under section 26 of the internal revenue code," the newspaper quoted Saigh. "In our deal, the surplus was taxed at that time at the rate of 5.7 per cent.

"That section of the law is being used every day, but you don't hear of the other deals. You hear of this because this was the Cardinals baseball club and Hannegan was in it."

The Deleware Senator quoted a report by Colin F. Stam, chief of staff for the Senate-House Internal Revenue Committee, as finding it questionable whether this fund, originally intended for the construction of a new ball park, was therefore entitled to exemption from a penalty tax which could run as high as 37½ per cent on sums over $100,000.

Stam said, according to Williams, that the Internal Revenue Bureau had failed to make a thorough check into the matter over a period of years.

Negro Star Paces The Texas League In Hitting, Hurling

DALLAS, July 5— (AP) — Dave Hoskins, Dallas' Negro pitcher, has the distinction this week of leading the Texas League both in pitching and hitting.

Hoskins has the best average for the time he has gone to the plate while hurling. Dave has hit .342 with 25 blows in 73 times at bat.

The actual hitting leader still is Grant Dunlap of Shrevevport, who, while he has slumped somewhat, still has the average of .341 on 74 hits in 217 trips to lead the regular players.

Hoskins with 12 victories against only five defeats tops the "regular turn" pitchers. Hal Erickson of Dallas has won the most games, however, showing a 13-6 record.

Harry Elliott of Shreveport is the only other player leading in more than one department. He tops in hits with 105 and in doubles with 26. He is one of three players who have gotten more than 100 hits. The others are Al Pillarcik of Beaumont, with 104, and Forest Smith of Beaumont, who has 103

Shreveport leads in club batting with .263 and Oklahoma City is just one point back.

KC Outfielder Leads Association Batters For The Third Week

CHICAGO, July 5— (AP) — Vic Power of Kansas City hasn't varied his percentage a point for the last three weeks and continues to lead American Association batters.

Power has been at the top of the heap for a month now. His average this week is .370—the precise figure with which he led the league the two previous weeks.

The Blues outfielder also leads the league in triples, with 11.

Most of the honors in the specialized departments go to the batting runnerup, Bill Skowron, also of Kansas City.

Besides a .356 batting average, Skowron leads the Association in doubles, with 21; in runs, with 69; in home runs, with 21; in total bases, with 203, and in runs batted in, with 80.

Other top batters are Bob Wilson, St. Paul, 351; Edmundo Amoros, St. Paul, 348, and Clint Hartung, Minneapolis, .347.

Wilson has the most hits, 114, and his teammate, Jack Cassini, the most stolen bases, 13.

Kansas City's Ed Cereghino and Ed Erautt remain the league's top pitchers. Cereghino has won eight and lost none. Erautt was won 13 and lost two.

Copple Winner Of Stockcar Races Friday

Marv Copple, Lincoln, Neb., bank executive set a fast and even pace which kept him in first position for 97 laps in the second annual 100-Mile Midwest Summer Classic stock car races at the State Fairground, Friday , and which brought his in first under the winner's flag for the $500 first place purse.

Copple, who was driving 1951 Oldsmobile, took the lead in the fourth lap and was never seriously challeneged for his position after that point. The real race came when Copple made a bid in the 85th lap to pass Don White, Keokuk, Ia., who led the race the first three circuit to lap the entire field. However, for 15 laps White keut the Lincoln, Neb. speedster behind him and finished second place with $350 in prize money.

White Provides Thrills.

White provided many of the thrills of the afternoon by trying to pass cars on the muddy south turn near the grandstand. In the 22nd lap he crashed into Gil Russell of Kansas City, Mo., while trying to keep on the track after hitting the mud. Both cars were able to swing away from each other in time to avoid a serious wreck, and both continued in the race.

In the 37th lap White really started his pace which enabled him to keep ¾ a lap behind Copple. While trying to keep up his pace White had a separate race with Herschel Buchanan, Shreveport, La., former national champion, who he had passed in a daring bid in front of the grandstand in the 42nd lap. Still keeping his hot pace in the next lap he split in between two of the cars at the southwest turn of the track in a near collison.

Later White took up 2nd place position which was not challenged again.

Buchanan In For Third

Buchanan, not to be outdone by White, started a race for third position with Ernie Derr, of Ft. Madison, Ia., who ended in fourth position. Derr driving a 1952 Oldsmobile, and Buchanan driving 1951 Nash fought it out around the track for five laps before the Nash finally pulled ahead.

Then Buchanan set his eye on second position which White was holding securely. In the 50th lap Buchanan made his bid and kept trying for second spot until the 62nd lap when White pulled away and finally paced him.

Buchanan still not satisfied waited until the 99th lap and then turned on his power to pass both White in second place and Copple in 1st but needing another lap on them he was only able to win third prize money of $275.

In the time trials which preceded the race Don White took first with a timing of 57.00 seconds flat for the mile oval. Second place went to Marvin Copple with 57.91 seconds. Other placing were: third, Ernie Deff, 48.15 seconds; Eddie Martin, Pell City, Ala., 59.00 seconds flat; Herschel Buchanan, 59.27 seconds and Shorty Eberts, 51.59 seconds.

Twenty Drivers Compete

The 20 drivers entered in the race were competing for $2,325 in prize money with 12 winners dividing the purse.

The first 10 fastest qualifiers in the time trials received $50.00 each and the next ten received $25.

A special prize of $250 was split between the beginning Missouri drivers.

The winners in the main race were: first, Marv Copple; second, Don White; third, Herschel Buchanan, fourth, Ernie Derr, fifth, Chug Montgomery, Lebanon, Mo.; sixth, Jim Page, Nashville, Tenn.; seventh, Sonny Gross, Quincy, Ill.; eighth, Tilman Huset, Brandon, S. Dak.; ninth, Max Smith, Sedalia; tenth, Delmer Donaldson, Burlington; Herbie Thomason, Holden, Mo. and twelfth, Gil Russell, Kansas City.

The races were sanctioned by the IMCA and a similar program will be presented at the fair grounds during Fair Week in August.

Victor Goes To Wichita

Ft. Wood OKs Plan To Meet Semi-Pro King

The 1952 Missouri State Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament is to be held, but without the Ft. Leonard Wood Hilltoppers. Commissioner H. L. "Hank" Williams made this announcement Saturday. However, the "Toppers" will meet the Missouri Champions in a playoff series to determine who makes the trip to the National Baseball Congress Tournament at Wichita, Kan., in August.

Recognizing the strength of the "Toppers," many semi-pro teams notified Commissioner Williams they did not desire to tangle with the service team and didn't want to play second fiddle to it in the tournament. The decision was reached Saturday to play the tournament without Ft. Wood, but the champions will be compelled to meet the service team in a playoff for the trip to Kansas.

Champs To Collect $1,000

Commissioner Williams has ruled the tournament will be played, with the winner being awarded $1,000 or 25-per cent of the gate receipts, which ever is greater. The champions will also receive the beautiful trophy awarded by the Coca Cola Bottling Co.

According to Williams, the service team management has agreed to this arrangement, desiring to see the state tournament a success. The playoff will start in Sedalia the week-end following the tournament, and possibly will be the best two out of three games.

Williams also said that the proceeds of the playoff will be divided between the winner and loser, the winners share to be used to pay expenses to Wichita. He is confident that regardless what team is state champion, the playoff series will without a doubt draw more money to be divided, and the winner should receive in excess of $1,000.

Sixteen Team Bracket

The state classic opens at Liberty Park on Friday night, July 18, and will carry through Sunday night, July 27. The bracket is expected to include at least 16 of the best teams in Missouri, among them the Jefferson City Redbirds, Holden, Sedalia Air Force Base, Ford Motors of Aurora, Springfield Generals, Waverly Merchants, Alexander Mudcats, First Methodist Church of Oronogo, TWA of Kansas City, Lexington Pirates. The leading league team of Overland, Bendix Aircraft of Kansas City and four others to be heard from within the next few days.

On the opening night of the tournament, all of the players in the major league of the Little League will be guests of Commissioner Williams. On Saturday afternoon all the players in the minor league will be guests.

An appropriate ceremony is being arranged for the opening night, complete arrangements to be announced later.

Sports Scraps

(By D. "KELLY" SCRUTON)

SEDALIA baseball fans will have an opportunity to see the "cream-of-the-crop" of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League in action next Wednesday night. It is the annual All-Star game when the pick of the players from all teams come to Sedalia to meet the Sedalia Chiefs, the league leaders.

Money derived from this game goes in its entirety to the Ban Johnson League and is used for the operation of the league. It is the first time Sedalia has played host to the All-Star game and all Sedalia should turn out to give Ban Johnson its support.

Although the players are youngsters under 21, they provide some of the best brand of baseball seen in this section. It will be a big night for these young players prior to the opening of the second half of the season's play.

LITTLE LEAGUE baseball should be cancelled that night. The players of the Little League are invited to see this game and get an inside view of what the future holds for them as they graduate from the Little League to Junior Legion Baseball and then on up the ladder to Ban Johnson.

After all where are the Little Leaguers going upon graduating from their baseball—to Junior Legion then on to Ban Johnson, and if good enough, to bigger and better fields in the sport. If Sedalia fails to support both Junior Legion and Ban Johnson the end may come for both, and Little Leaguers will be left out upon reaching their 12-year-old birthday.

I was informed Saturday that if these games are postponed one night these youngsters are invited to see the All-Star game. To me it is a nice gesture on the part of Ban Johnson to their future players.

WEDNESDAY night of the past week I witnessed one of the finest festivals in Missouri held in behalf of recreation. It was at Jefferson City and was sponsored by the Lions Club of that city.

Much to my surprise the festival had drawn between 12,000 and 15,000 people from Jefferson City and surrounding territory. It resulted in raising funds of several thousands of dollars most of which is turned over to Jefferson City to sponsor their recreational program. The money retained by the Club is used strictly for the purpose of purchasing equipment to go along with the program.

I was informed the Lions of that City in the past several years had begun sponsoring these festivals for the purpose of raising funds for recreation. So successful has the recreational program been carried on that the annual affair continues to grow and grow, creating a much larger fund for the purpose.

Some years ago it was started for the purpose of building wading pools, this program was completed, other projects of play ground equipment were arranged with the result, this project was adequately carried out. Then the recreational program project was started and it now is considered one of the best in the nation.

As a result of these festivals it is possible for the Lions to turn over to the city a sum far in excess of $6,000 per year. Maybe something like this could be started in Sedalia to help Sedalia with a recreational program.

1949 Semi-Pro Tourney Won By Upstart Holcomb Cards

(This is the 12th article in a series on the history of the Missouri Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament, written for The Democrat-Capital by Hank Williams of Sedalia, the Missouri Semi-Pro Commssioner).

The 1949 Missouri State Tournament was moved from Sedalia to Jefferson City, where a group of baseball-minded people from Jefferson City raised $1,500 to have the annual event held in the Capitol City.

The Jefferson City Redbirds, defending state champions, were the pre-tournament favorites but, true to tournament play, the favorite was eliminated in the 4th round when the Patton Creamers of Springfield defeated the Redbirds in a thriller 3-2, thereby earning the right to meet the Holcomb Cardinals in the finals.

Holcomb advanced to the finals with a record of four wins against no losses, while the Patton Creamers record was four wins and one defeat.

The boys from a town of 300 located in the "Bootheel" marched through the field undefeated; they not only won first prize money but also the giant Coca Cola trophy, and compiled a record of five games won, no losses, 33 runs scored, made 59 hits, had a no-hit no-run game by their ace left-hander, Lloyd Fisher.

Weiss Throws 5-Hitter

In the final game Lou Weiss, big righthander, was on the mound for Holcomb and turned in a brilliant five-hitter and drove in the winning run to give Holcomb a 4-3 victory over the Patton Creamers, good for the state title.

Trailing by a 3-1 score in the seventh inning, Holcomb scored 3 runs when Mel Schwab beat out an infield hit, Charley Hart doubled, Schwab going to third, and both runners crossed home plate when Wes Lentz drove a single to center, tying the score at 3-all. Barney Cone then moved Lentz to second on a sacrifice bunt. With the score tied and the leading run on second base, Lou Wiess stepped to the plate and drove a long double to left center scoring Lentz with what proved to be the winning run.

The Versailles Merchants got their name in the tournament records when they committed 12 errors in one game, five errors by one player, played in one game that lasted 3 hours, 35 minutes, and lost the game by a 17-16 score.

Hart Paces Hitters

Charley Hart, Holcomb outfielder, won the leading hitter's award with the highest average ever made in tourney play, when he hit for a .471 average.

Lloyd Fisher, lefthander for Holcomb, turned in a no-hit no-run performance against Marshall.

The following All-State team was selected:

C—R. Mock, Holcomb.
C—L. Harris, Marshall.
P—L. Fisher, Holcomb.

Middlecoff Grabs Lead In Motor City Tourney

DETROIT, July 5— (AP) — Dr. Cary Middlecoff fired three straight birdies on the back nine today to grab a one stroke lead over Red Kroll at the three-quarter mark of the $15,000 Motor City open golf tournament.

Middlecoff used only 15 putts on the second nine for a 31 after an even pad 36 over the par 72 Red Runs Golf Club course. This gave him a 13 under par 54-hole total of 69-67-67—203.

Kroll, leader after the first round and tied for top after the second, slipped to a 39 on the back nine after a 33 going out for a 71 today. His 54-hole total is 65-68-71—204.

Lloyd Mangrum, the defending champion, remained within striking distance by firing a 37-33—70 and a three-round total of 205.

Just one more stroke back was Dick Mayer, 27-year-old St. Petersburg, Fla., pro with 68-65-73—206. He had shared the lead with Kroll at the halfway mark.

This big four stood out above the rest of the 80-man field going into the final 18-hole round Sunday.

Clinton Merchants Defeat SAFB 16-12

Last week at Clinton, the Sedalia Air Force Base bowed to the Clinton Merchants to the tune of 16-12 in a game marked with runs, base hits and walks aplenty. Few errors were made, but ten players received free tickets to first base via base-on-balls and another by being hit by a pitched ball.

A total of 28 hits were made, divided evenly between the two teams, each receiving 14.

The SAFB pulled a quick, but short lead getting a 2-0 lead at the top of the second. However, Estes the SAFB moundsman quickly fell victim to the Merchants in the bottom of the second only to be relieved by Bainbridge, who was unable to warm up before taking over the pitching duties. When the dust settled Clinton had collected nine runs on 6 hits and three walks and one SAFB error.

In the sixth the Merchants added six runs to run their total to 15-5. The Airmen came back in the seventh and added seven runs on five hits, one walk and a Clinton error to run their score to 12.

Wright of the SAFB hit a homer which nearly collected a $10 bonus for him. His drive went far over a Clinton merchant's sign. Had the ball hit the sign he would have drawn down the bonus. Arnie Wilson, of the Airmen, had a perfect night with one homer and four singles.

Detroit Ousts Rolfe,

Hutchison Wins Managerial Post; Bartell Also Fired

DETROIT, July 5— (AP) — The last place Detroit Tigers today fired Manager Red Rolfe and in a dramatic, surprise move boosted relief pitcher Fred Hutchinson, fiery 32-year-old righthander, into the managerial post.

President Walter O. (Spike) Briggs, Jr., announced the dismissal of Rolfe and third base coach Dick Bartell at the conclusion of a board of directors' meeting that preceded tonight's game with St. Louis. The firing of Rolfe in order to quell the gripes of critical fans had been expected.

But the appointment of Hutchinson, only Tiger hurler with a winning percentage, came as a jolt. He will take over for tonight's game.

Hutchinson hadn't figured prominently in the pre-meeting speculation. First base coach Ted Lyons, former Chicago White Sox pitcher and manager, had been the original choice of Briggs but Lyons turned down the job last night.

Briggs said coaches Lyons and Rick Ferrell will be retained. No one will be appointed immediately to take Bartell's place.

Fans had begun filing into the stadium when the young president made his dramatic announcement to a score of newsmen.

We've Got To Find Out

"I want to tell you the board accepted my recommendation," said Briggs. "We all appreciated the loyalty of Red and Dick and the fine job they've done. I doubt if there can be any improvement in the ball club but we've got to find out."

Hutchinson was appointed to fill out the season but Brigg. declined to comment on whether he will be retained next season.

Briggs hopes Hutch, recognized as a scrappy competitor, can fire up the dispirited Tigers and lift them out of the cellar—a spot where the Tigers never before finished. No other major league club holds such a distinction.

Hutch, curly-haired favovrite of Tiger fans and the American league's played representative to Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick's office, was in his tenth season with the Tigers.

Following his 10-10 record in 1951, Hutchinson was demoted to a relief role this year. He appeared in 12 games, defeating New York 7-6 and Chicago 6-4 as a reliefer and losing his only start to Chicago 10-3.

Born in Seattle, Wash., he now resides at Bradenton Beach, Fla.

The 6-foot-2 control artist broke in with Seattle in 1938 and was purchased by the Tigers for $50,000 and four players in a widely-heralded deal. He moved up to Detroit from the Toledo farm club late in 1939 and had a 3-6 mark.

Hutch divided his time between Detroit and Buffalo the next two seasons. At Buffalo in 1941 he won 26 and lost 7 to lead the league.

He served in the Navy from 1942 to 1945.

Elks Break 7-Game Losing Streak In Major Leagues

Standings	W	L
Jaycees	7	3
Rotary	5	5
Kiwanis	5	5
Elks	3	7

In the Little Leagues majors, the Elks downed the Rotary 16 to 4 Friday night, winning their first game after seven straight defeats, and the Jaycees whipped the Kiwanis team 17 to 11 to pull out in front of the league with a good margin.

Sutton was the winning pitcher in the Elks-Rotary game as he struck out ten batters and didn't walk a man until the last half of the sixth when pinch hitter Walch worked the count to three and two and then took his base on balls.

The losing pitcher was Burford, who gave way to Herrick in the fifth after hurling a nice game. The big guns for the Elks were Means, Beymer and Griffen, all connecting for two hits. Nichols lead the Rotary hitting attack, smashing out three for three.

Bredwell and Abney pitched the Jaycees to victory with the aid of O'Mealy, who blasted his fourth home run of the season to take the league lead in that department. Bryan was the Jaycee's leading hitter, getting three for five trips at the plate.

The losing hurler was Drew, although he pitched good ball. The Kiwanis' leading hitters for the game were Bishop and Newman, both collecting three for four.

Miss Connolly Takes Crown At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, July 5—(AP)—Maureen Connolly, petite powerhouse from San Diego, Calif. whipped Louise Brough, 7-5, 6-3, today to become the first teenager in 65 years to win the coveted women's singles title in the All-England Tennis Championships.

The 17-year-old bombshell, also holder of the U.S. singles crown, surged from behind twice to end the comeback hopes of the veteran Miss Brough, three times Wimbledon champion from 1948 to 1950.

Not since 1905, when May Sutton of California won the women's title here, has the queen of the courts been someone of such tender years. Miss Sutton was several months younger than Miss Connolly when she won the Wimbledon crown.

She Plays Faultlessly

Playing with the precision of a mechanical doll, Miss Connolly cut down Miss Brough with a display of faultless ground strokes and uncanny anticipation. As she slammed home the winning point, the crowd of 13,000 jammed into the famed Center Court rose and gave her a big ovation.

While she received from the Duchess of Kent the silver plate that goes with the new title, Maureen bubbled with laughter and joy—just like any other teenager caught in a moment of excitement.

Miss Connolly was not the only one to harvest tennis glory this bright afternoon, for Frank Sedgman, Australia's magnificent Davis Cupper, completed a "triple" by sharing in the doubles and mixed doubles title.

The sandy-haired Aussie teamed with countryman Ken McGregor to retain the men's double title. They scored a stunning 6-3, 7-5,6-4 victory over Vic Sexias of Philadelphia and Eric Sturgess of South Africa.

He Teams With Doris Hart

Then, after a rest, Sedgmen joined with Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., took the mixed doubles title. They defeated Enrique Morea of Argentina and Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 to hold the crown they won last year.

Sedgman won the men's singles on Friday over Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt. He also holds the U.S. singles crown—which makes him the No. 1 player in the world.

Gentry Patterson Makes Hole-In-1 At Country Club

Gentry Patterson, who won the Sedalia Country Club championship last year, made the first hole-in-one of the 1952 season on the local course Friday afternoon.

Patterson realized every golfer's dream on the 118-yard number 7 hole. His tee-shot, made with an eight-iron, hit two feet over the pin and slightly to the right. It took one hop forward before the backspin took effect and brought it back into the cup.

Playing in Patterson's foursome were his brother Charles, Danny Van Dyne and Dick Wade.

Oddly enough the four recorded scores of 1, 2, 3 and 4 on the par-3 hole.

Patterson shot a 38-37 for the 18 holes. His hole-in-one was made on the back nine.

To make the day complete for the Patterson brothers, Charles won the annual July 4th Flag Day Tournament.

In his allotted 75 strokes, a corrected score including his plus-3 handicap, Charley played 18 holes and hit two shots on the 19th. This left him six-feet from the pin on the par-4 number one hole. Col. Robert Holt came-in second. He had one stroke left after he played 18 holes and hit a 215-yard drive.

SPOONBILLS FOR THE TABLE—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Turner, route 2, Green Ridge, with two Spoonbill catfish, each weighing over 50-pounds, which they caught in the Lake of the Ozarks a week ago, at Shady Point near Stover the cabin home of Mr. Turner's uncle, C. E. Cone. The Turners also caught a dozen other nice fish weighing from two to 19 pounds. Mr. Turner, a brother of Mrs. Palmer Nichols, 622 East 17th, has the Turner Sheet Metal Works, 1000 East Third.

Baptists Win, Lose During Holiday Period

The East Sedalia Baptist softball team won one and lost one during the holidays, defeating LaMonte Methodists 6 to 1 here Thursday night and then losing Friday night to a Tipton team at Tipton by a 15 to 4 count.

Wray Homan, hurling his first game for the Baptists, gave up only two hits as he set down the LaMonte team with one unearned run. Sparks tossed for the losers. Catchers were Morton for LaMonte, Blankenship for Baptists.

Murphy led the Baptist hitting with three for four.

At Tipton Friday night, Braden started on the mound and was relieved by Homan in the last of the sixth. Darby was the Tipton tosser. The records of the pitchers included: Darby, 10 hits, 1 walk; Braden, 10 hits, 6 walks; Homan, no hits, 1 strike out.

D. Brant, Tipton, collected the only homer of the game. Murphy and Homan led the Baptist hitting, each with 3 for 4.

Baptists now play Houstonia at Center Park Thursday night.

Father and Son Sponsor Teams—

Schlitz Leaders Meet Jeff City Stags Here Sunday Nite

The Schlitz Leaders will play host to the Stag Beer soft ball team at the Center Park Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

The Leaders whipped the Stags from Jefferson City in their other game, at the Center Park, by a score of 6-4 and will be out to repeat this victory for their sponsor, Steve Fechtel, over his father's team. The Stags are rated one of the top teams in the Jefferson City area while the Leaders are playing top ball with a season's record of 17 and five.

Behind the three hit pitching of Tommy Sanders, the Leaders downed the Marriott Reed Coalers at Columbia Thursday night by a score of 5-2.

Sanders pitched a nice game for the Leaders, allowing but three hits, while his team mates collected five off the Columbia hurler, Sheridan.

The Leaders collected one run in each the first, third and fourth and two in the fifth. The Coalers scored in the first and second innings. Paul Evans hit a homer in the fourth for the Leaders.

Batteries were: for the Coalers, Sheridan and Long; and the Leaders, Sanders and Swisher.

It's a "building" when speaking of a group of rooks; a "brood" of grouse; or a "plump" of wildfowl.

Water Carnival, Fireworks, Dance At Hubbard Park

Over 500 people attended the water carnival and fireworks show at Hubbard Park Friday, July 4.

In the water show the outstanding divers were: Quintin Grey, Charles Jackson, Billy Shope, Snake Hawkins, Charles Whitney, L. A. Boggess, Joe Morehead and Arlander Caldwell.

First place in the underwater swimming event went to Billy Shobe and second to Michael Carter. In the free style swimming class, Edward Carter was first and was followed closely by Michael Carter, who took second. Winners in the fry style race were: first, Lawrence Boggess; second, Joe Morehead; and third, Julius Hylick.

A colorful fireworks display was set off by the park manager R. E. Lee, which was supplemented by the Missouri Pacific Boosters Club.

A free dance climaxed the night's program at the Shelter House platform.

R. E. Lee, manager of the swimming pool, announced at the show that the Red Cross swimming classes will be held Tuesday and Friday morning instead of as previously planned on Saturday mornings. The hours of instruction are 10 a.m. until noon.

'Ike-ites' Steal Taft Theme Song With New Words

By ED CREAGH

CHICAGO, July 5 (AP)—The Eisenhowers can accuse the Tafts of delegate-stealing all they like, but they've got to admit one piece of larceny themselves.

They've stolen Taft's campaign song.

Maybe you remember it from 1948. It's to the tune of "I'm Looking Over a Four-Leaf Clover," and as the Taft people sing it, it begins:

"We're looking over a four-leaf clover
"That we overlooked before."

They mean, of course, Sen. Robert A. Taft. And the song goes on to say that this year they're going to put Taft over.

Well, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's people sent sound trucks circulating through the streets today braying out—the four-leaf clover song.

Only with different words.

The pro-Ike version starts:

"Taft is a loser,
"A four-time loser —"

And it doesn't get any friendlier to the Ohio senator as it goes along.

Four-time loser?

The Ike people arrive at that figure on the basis of Taft's being passed over for an Ohio state office years ago, plus his failure to win the GOP presidential nomination in 1936, 1940 and 1948.

Taft's side points out with vigor that the senator hasn't lost an election since he first won a seat in the Ohio Legislature in 1921.

School Custodians Have Party Friday

Friday evening, June 27, the custodians of the Sedalia public schools had a party at the Bradford Roadside Park on West Highway 50. Most Lavish Stage Show At State Fair

One of the most lavished and best balanced revues conceived will be presented at the Missouri State Fair this year, it was announced today by Rollo E. Singleton, secretary. The show, known as the "Golden Anniversary Stage Show and Musical Revue," will be presented nightly Aug. 19 through 24, in front of the grandstand.

According to all reports, the extravaganza will be particularly outstanding because of the impressive ahd artistic manner in which the features will be blended into a colorful production of music, choreography, scenery and lighting.

The first scene, "Saturday Night in Central Park," will be a mirthful and gala portrayal of nurse maids and policemen in innocent flirtations in a big city park.

Another dazzling scene, "The Bolero," will depict a colorful Latin revue with a blazing accent on lavish red costumes. Superb dancing will be a highlighted fete.

A typical scene of the Old South will also be provided in the repertoire, "Show Boat Days." Tnis number will include a set depicting a typical river levee with a full stage of roustabouts, pickaninnies, Southern belles, and swaggering gentlemen, all in picturesque costumes of the period.

The famed Ainsworth dancers, 16 beautiful chorines, all handpicked for their beauty and dancing ability, will appear throughout the varied production numbers. Their perfectly drilled precision has won them wide acclaim.

All through the numbers will be the headliner attractions of singers, dancers, comedians and the spirited music so important in the blending of a successful musical.

Included will be such acts as the comic star, Larry Griswold, world's foremost acrobatic comedian; Bert Nagle and Hilja, novelty contortionist acrobats; Low, Hie and Stanley, nationally famous pantomime imitators and acrobatic dancing stars, and Santress' Tally-Ho, acclaimed the world's most educated dog act.

Congressmen May Allow Themselves $3,000 Tax Free

WASHINGTON (AP)—All members of Congress would be allowed to exempt the first $3,000 of their Washington living expenses from income taxes under an agreement reached by Senate-House conferees.

The agreement, reached last night, is part of the 76 million dollar legislative budget bill and must be approved by both chambers.

It was a compromise between a House bill which would have exempted all of a member's Washington living expenses from income tax and a Senate Appropriations Committee bill which would have limited the amount to the first $2,400 of living costs in Washington. The Senate voted 67 to 2 against its own committee bill.

The exemption, effective next Jan. 1, would more than cancel out the imposition of taxes on a $2,500 expenses allowance which hitherto had been tax-free. Senators and representatives receive a $12,500 annual salary plus the $2,500 expense fund.

The Sedalia Democrat

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

Second Section | Sedalia, Missouri | Sunday, July 6, 1952

NEWSPAPER MEN TRAVELLING ACROSS ONTARIO as recent guests of the Department of Travel & Publicity had opportunity to see huge log "booms" being rafted to mills in preparation for manufacture into pulp, paper and cellulose products. Typical northern scene is that shown above (right) of log rafts at Terrace Bay. The other picture is a distinctive southern Ontario site, the Royal Botanical Gardens at Hamilton, visited by the editors on the last day of their Ontario tour.

Room for Many More Boys and Girls In Recreation Program at Two Parks

Merchants Provide Supervised Play During Summer

At the beginning of the summer, the Sedalia merchants provided several hundred dollars to run a vacation playground at Liberty and Washington parks for youngsters in Sedalia.

George Thompson, an instructor at Morace Mann School, was chosen to head the project for the summer and he has established a program of varied interests.

At the present time there are about 125 young Sedalians participating in the program which is carried in each day.

The program provides facilities and opportunities for baseball, softball, croquet, horseshoe pitching, football, badminton, volleyball and boxing. The youngsters are also able to work on bar bells and jungle-jims and facilities are available to girls and boys alike.

Thompson who has been running a full schedule of events, said that there was room for many more of the local youngsters, both boys and girls, to participate in the program.

At the present time a series of baseball games between Liberty and Washington parks is being played at the Liberty Park ball diamond on Wednesday mornings. The large boys from both parks play on the regular diamond and the smaller ones play at the side.

The wins so far this summer are: for the larger boys, Washington Park 1, Liberty Park 2; for the smaller boys, Washington Park 1 and Liberty Park 2. On Fridays the Liberty Park team plays the Democrat-Carriers.

The ball teams have gone to Marshall where the larger boys were defeated by the Marshall recreational team by a score of 8-0, and the smaller boys won by a score of 26-3.

Other such trips have been planned for the Liberty Park boys in the near future to Marshall, Jefferson City and Slater.

Assisting Thompson in the program, which runs each weekday morning, are: Warren Keene, Charles Phillips and Ralph Walker.

RECREATION PLAY—Jackie Eugene Miller, 1629 East Fifth sitting on the top pole; Daniel Loucks, 1713 South Osage, standing on the bars; and Kenneth W. Bennett, 732 East Third, starting down the slide, are just a few of the local youths who take part in the summer playground activities at Liberty Park. These boys have just finished a baseball game between Washington and Liberty Parks and are now playing on the jungle-jim in Liberty Park. (Photo by Walch-Zoernig)

2 Boy Scouts Ride 2200 Miles on Bikes

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (AP) — Two boy scouts pedaled up to city hall here last night completing a 2,200-mile bicycle trip to attend the Saskatchewan scout jamboree.

Rover Scout John Stevens, 18, of Windsor, Ont., and Eagle Scout Robert Fletcher, 14, of Detroit, Mich., received the freedom of the city in recognition of their feat.

The scouts started out from Windsor two months ago. They arrived right on schedule—the jamboree opens today.

Schrecks of Tipton Have 2nd Set of Twins

TIPTON — Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schreck are the parents of their second set of twins. On the first of July at St. Joseph's Hospital in Boonville at 4 a.m., Marcia Kay, weighing six pounds and eight ounces, and Michael Ray, who weighed an even six pounds, were born. The other twins in the family are boys, Dennis and Danny, four years old.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Schreck was Miss Catherine Claas, daughter of John Claas, the father being a son of C. F. Schreck, Sedalia.

Pee-Wee Jets Blast Model Planes at 140 Miles Per Hour

NEW YORK — (AP) — The age of jet propulsion is taking over the model airplane field.

Already, more than 2,000 miniature plane pilots around the country are flying jets. Before long, it is expected they will reach a speed in excess of 200 miles an hour.

One junior jet already has been clocked at 179 miles an hour. That was a record set in a national meet by two boys from Minneapolis — Bob Thor and Glen Temte.

Their little plane blew up in mid-air after setting the record, but that hasn't discouraged them or other pee-wee jet fans.

The average jet model, weighing 16 ounces and costing about $35, whizzes around on a wire at about 140 miles an hour. With improvements in design, they'll soon better 200, according to Arthur Hassebach, president of a Bronx model plane club (The Model Knights), one of the pioneers in junior jets. He is also a manufacturer of the tiny machine.

The development of model jets began in California about eight years ago.

"Many of us all over the country," says Hassebach, exchanged information in the pioneer work. The biggest problem was to get the tanks to feed properly.

"My first jet set a national record at 89 mph. Today we have jets which take off that fast."

The chief problem among junior jet pilots is the noise. A jet model, he says makes almost as much noise as the real thing. That makes it difficult to find urban airfields.

A jet model looks like nothing more than a pipe on wings. Actually, it's complicated, but, of course, far less intricate than the real thing.

The fuel, ordinary automobile gas, is fed across a spark plug in the engine, which ignites and creates an explosion. This closes valves forcing pressure out through the tail pipe and giving the plane its forward thrust.

This action also creates a vacuum in the tube, starting another cycle, drawing fuel into the engine again.

The average jet gas tank holds between four and eight ounces of fuel. On that much, it can travel only about 15 laps, or one mile. The conventional model plane flys three times longer on the same fuel supply.

West India's Shooting War Like Film Tale

NEW DELHI (AP)—The shooting war going on in the desert wilderness of Western India might raise the envy of any Hollywood movie writer.

It's the government's campaign against India's dacoits —bloodthirsty, hard-riding bandits who for decades have infested the former princely states of Jodhpur, Jaipur and Bikaner.

The war goes on before a backdrop of camel-riding gangsters, night raids and murders, kidnaped women, and straight-shooting policemen.

Twice recently Prime Minister Nehru commended police heroes in the struggle, determined men who followed their quarry for days and finally brought them in dead.

The last commendation came after police trapped and killed bandit leader Pabudan Singh and five of his gang after a six-hour gun battle. The police fired more than 700 bullets into the bandit hideout and faced more than 400 shots in reply before all six Dacoits died.

The anti-crime war drove India's most famous dacoit across the border and into a Pakistan prison cell. He is Bhupat, sometimes called the Robin Hood of Saurashtra State. India placed a reward equal to $10,500 on his head and jailed several minor princes for assisting him and his gang.

When he fled into pakistan—where he was arrested for carrying unlicensed firearms and jailed for a year—Bhupat faced 85 murder charges. Most of them resulted from raids on rich villagers of Saurashtra State.

In Parliament Nehru told how a special police inspector trailed Bhupat night and day, riding on horseback continuously for more than a week, until Bhupat evaded arrest by slipping into Pakistan.

Modern police methods play a minor part in the desert warfare. Pursued and pursuers alike ride camels or horses. Motor vehicles find it hard going in the deserts. Occasionally airplanes help locate fleeing gangs.

Both fear and hero worship play a part in successful operations of Pabudan Singh. For more than 16 years he led a band of outlaws through the Rajasthan deserts, hiding with friendly villagers whenever police pursuit became too close.

Not only villagers but people of princely standing have helped the dacoits. Government officials say this came about both from fear and admiration.

Beautiful women have been a normal target of these raiders. Many a dark-haired, dark-eyed Rajasthan beauty has been carried away on the camel of some bandit leader. In one case a woman turned bandit herself and shared with her husband leadership of a gang. When he was killed by police she took command over the survivors.

Most of the desert raiders are well armed. Many own the finest camels and the fastest horses to be found in India's western deserts. To wipe them out and relieve Rajasthan's villagers of the menace of night raids and sudden death special police leaders have been recruited, most of them from other parts of India.

Odds and Ends By News Staff

After the many days of hot weather when people talked of almost nothing else, the children got to thinking about it, too.

Just before the rain, when the clouds began to gather in the sky and there was a rumbling of thunder, a small boy called over to the woman who lives next door to him: "Don't you wish it would thunder hard enough to knock the rain out of the clouds?" It looks like the thunder or something sure did the job.—H.L.

The Fourth of July golf tournament at the Sedalia Country Club was won by E. M. Stafford Jr.

The Addalla Grotto barbecue and fish fry, held at Warsaw July 4, was a complete success. A street parade headed by the Grotto band under the direction of H. H. Kroencke was followed by the other festivities.

Garden City Grange held a big picnic in the Goodwill vicinity, southeast of Sedalia on the farm of Harry McCune. A baseball game and other events furnished entertainment.

The Pettis County Farmers Institute basket dinner and celebration of July 4 at the fairgrounds attracted attendance esimated from 12,000 to 15,000. Every township and most every school district was represented. A parade, headed by decorated cars, was given. The Second Regiment band followed. Then came horse drawn carriages with city officials and township delegations. In the award of prizes Cedar Township with J. Frost Waddell as chairman took first honors.

Driving wheels of engine 191, pulling MKT train No. 9, climbed the rails near the station Wednesday afternoon and Engineer C. B. Green was hurled through the cab window, receiving a fractured right ankle, bruises and contusions. He was treated at the company hospital.

Taft's Steamroller Is Slowing Down

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

CHICAGO—The outcome of this convention is going to depend on pressure politics — the political steamroller vs. the pocketbook steamroller.

Taft has already shown how he can ride roughshod over the Eisenhower forces in the preliminary skirmishes, but the big-money boys are quietly dismantling the steamroller right out from under Taft. With a few strong tugs of the financial strings, they are pulling key men into the Eisenhower camp, and the Taft steamroller has already lost momentum.

It's still a question as to whether Taft's frontal pressure or Wall Street's backstage pressure will win, but here's how the battle of the pressures is shaping up:

Taft High Pressure — Taft has complete control of the convention machinery. His hand-picked people will be swinging the gavel, delivering the key speeches and running the committees. Taft is counting heavily upon his keynote speaker, General MacArthur, to take the convention by emotional storm. MacArthur will blast the Democratic administration's "Europe first" policy, thus take an indirect swipe at Eisenhower. Taft forces also have cornered the bulk of the gallery tickets, will stack the bleachers with Taft rooters. And the Chicago Tribune will add to this psychological advantage by bursting Taft bombshells throughout the convention.

Eisenhower High Pressure — Biggest blow to Taft was the little-noticed announcement that Sinclair Weeks had come out for Eisenhower. As GOP finance chairman, Weeks holds the key to the Republican treasury. In the past, he has leaned toward Taft; raised $82,000 for Taft in 1950. But Weeks couldn't withstand the financial pressure from Wall Street, has now pitched his tent in the Eisenhower camp. Other key men, who have felt the financial needle, include Pennsylvania's Gov. John Fine and Michigan's Arthur Summerfield. Both have been under terrific pressure from the big-money boys to come out for Ike.

Meanwhile, the nomination still depends on which way the following pivotal states will go.

Michigan—The Michigan delegation will caucus on Sunday night, and Arthur Summerfield, a Chevrolet dealer, has already promised General Motors privately to come out for Eisenhower. This announcement is supposed to launch the Ike bandwagon on the eve of the convention. However, Taft has been busy pulling strings with Michigan's Sen. Homer Ferguson, who will try to trip up Summerfield. Ferguson has promised Taft to fight inside the caucus to keep the delegation uninstructed. This is the most the Taft forces can hope for.

Pennsylvania — Governor Fine is caught in a terrific cross-current. The Wall Street crowd, working through some of the big steel companies, is pressuring Fine to throw his weight behind Eisenhower. However, Taft has been working through General MacArthur, whom Fine worships. At Taft's behest, MacArthur telephoned Fine, urged him to support Taft. As a result, the governor is still tightrope walking precariously down the middle. But the majority of his delegation is no longer with him. Governor Dewey has been meeting quietly in Philadelphia with Pennsylvania county chairmen, who swing the most weight in Pennsylvania politics. As a result, no matter what Fine decides, the majority of Pennsylvania's delegates will vote for Eisenhower. Fine can swing about 17 votes at the most.

California—Delegates will stick with Gov. Earl Warren for the first ballots. When they start to break, most of them are expected to go for Eisenhower, though 20 to 23 are in Taft's pocket.

Maryland—The Maryland delegation, except for a few strays, is sewed up for Eisenhower.

Thus the majority of the key delegations are lined up for Eisenhower. But if Taft goes into the convention with strong first-ballot strength, he may be able to pick up enough scattered votes from Pennsylvania and Michigan to put him across. As it now stands, it looks as if Governor Fine's 17 votes might be deciding.

Absentee GOP Landlords

The real issue at stake in the battle to seat delegates at Chicago is more important than whether Eisenhower or Taft is nominated It gets down to the basic question of whether the Republican party really wants to function in the South.

Once every four years, Republicans have a chance to demonstrate whether they mean what they say about organizing the South by breaking up the GOP absentee-landlord feudal system which keeps the Republican party in a more degraded state of peonage than tenant farmers on the worst Mississippi plantation.

Here is how it works.

In South Carolina, the Republican national committeeman is Edgar Morris, supposed to live in Pickens, S. C., but who actually lives in Washington, D. C., has an electric-appliance store there, a $100,000 mansion, and is so well established that he has long been a member of the D. C. board of public welfare, on which he could not serve unless he were a D. C. citizen.

Last week, South Carolina Republicans got irked with their absentee landlord, got a preliminary ruling from a South Carolina court that Morris "is in every legal and moral sense" a resident of Washington, D. C., and has no right to represent the Republican party in South Carolina.

Yet illegal-resident Mr. Morris is now in Chicago, sitting on the key credentials committee where he rules on the legality of himself and other southern delegates to sit. It is hardly necessary to add that he is for Taft.

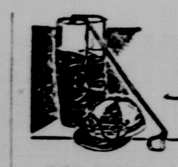

Absentee Landlady

Morris co-partner from South Carolina is Mrs. John Messervy, Republican national committeewoman, who is supposed to live at 159 Rutledge Ave., Charleston. If you try to get her at that address however, as I did you will be unsuccessful. For Mrs. Messervy for some time owned radio station WLOU in Louisville, Ky., now lives at Williston, Ky. She is also for Taft.

Another absentee political landlord is the Republican national committeeman from Mississippi, Perry Howard, a Negro attorney living in Washington. Mr. Howard is just as much a pillar of the Negro community in Washington as Mr. Morris is of the white community.

He seldom goes to Mississippi, has no more influence in Mississippi than the Shah of Persia, but is able to deliver a neat bloc of Mississippi delegates to Taft. Senator Taft, incidentally, gratefully put Mr. Howard's son on the Senate payroll as a postoffice clerk when the Republicans controlled Congress.

The only way you build up a political party is by living near and among the voters. The absentee-landlord system and the pocketbook delegates which Republicans seem to want continued in the South will never build up a party.

Stake Horse

By Larry Sternig

THE STORY: Johnny Hamilton inherited his father's racing stable and $100,000 in debts, which he must pay off in three months. The notes are held by Roger Kovalt, who has hired Johnny's best jockey and has boasted he will own Adonis, the horse that Johnny expects to do great things on the track. Johnny has decided to let Rusty Sloan, a younger jockey, do his riding during the money-raising campaign. Johnny also has just met a girl, Carol O'Shea, a singer, who is the niece of Nystrom, the Hamilton trainer.

• • •

VI

A BIG, yellow hard top convertible came slowly along shedrow. It was driven by Roger Kovalt. Johnny went over to the fence to wait for Rusty to breeze a two-year-old.

Here was the sun and the infield green before him. Here were the thoroughbreds, showing their wares, the empty stands, the rail birds. Here I am, Johnny thought, with all this and Carol too. I should be a lot happier than I am.

Rusty came through the gate aboard the two-year-old filly, Annabella. "When she's warm enough," Johnny said, "give her a two-furlong sprint. She might have the stuff for the Futurity."

He hadn't noticed that Kovalt had come up from behind. When he did, he turned away.

Annabella went into the first turn easily, under wraps. A rail bird at the turn was looking at his watch. Through the backstretch Annabella ran, the pace lifting. Halfway through the north turn, Rusty shook her free.

She moved nicely, close to the rail, with a compact, powerful stride that ate up the dirt.

Kovalt said, "Likely looking animal."

Johnny turned, but it wasn't he Kovalt had been addressing. A tall, white-haired man in gray flannel had joined Kovalt.

Uptrack, Rusty turned and came back. When he reached the gate he said, "I'll take Challenger for the Futurity, Mr. Hamilton. This filly hasn't got his speed."

"I think you're right," Johnny agreed. "We'll try him next."

As Rusty rode away, the white-haired man detached himself from Kovalt's side, and came over. He was smiling. "You're John Hamilton's boy?"

Johnny nodded. He liked the looks of this elderly man: he could not picture him as a friend of Kovalt's.

"My name is Garry," the man said. "I was a friend of your dad's."

"Judge Garry," Johnny identified him. "I've heard Dad talk about you." They shook hands.

The judge glanced uncomfortably over at Kovalt. "I—uh—hope you'll have a successful season. Mr. Nystrom has told me of some of your troubles. If there's any way I can help—"

"Thanks," Johnny said. "There isn't much anyone can do for me unless I do have a successful season."

The judge nodded. "It's a tough game, son. Try to play it as well as you can. But there are bound to be disappointments—"

Johnny managed a grin. "I've found that out already, sir. I hope I've inherited the ability to take it."

"I'm sure you have," the judge told him. "And I sincerely hope everything turns out for the best." He went back to stand next to Kovalt.

• • •

RUSTY was bringing Challenger out onto the track now. The sorrel colt was acting up.

Challenger wanted to run: Rusty was having a time trying to rate him down. Then they were spanning the backstretch. Rusty had evidently given the colt his head

Dust rose on the north turn, and through the dust the sorrel streak came, running smoothly, with great strides, looking all legs and straining neck. Rusty rode high, his bat idle in his hand, gaining speed. Into the grandstand lane now, getting bigger, the hoof-thunder louder, the stride all out. Johnny forgot his troubles for the moment, and the watch in his hand, as the colt hammered by.

This was the one for the Futurity, all right.

The judge and Kovalt were walking toward the stables. Rusty brought Challenger over to the fence and he was grinning. "Well—?"

Johnny nodded. "I wish Adonis had his heart."

Back at the stables, a little later, Nystrom said, "The vet says Adonis is sound as a bell. It's all between his ears."

Johnny wasn't listening. He said, "Judge Garry's here—with Kovalt."

Nystrom frowned.

Johnny's smile was bitter. "He's not only a friend of Goodhue's, he's a friend of Kovalt's, too. Still think he gave you good advice yesterday?"

Nystrom nodded. "There's never been any doubt in my mind about Judge Garry."

• • •

ON Saturday, they had entries in only two of the cheap races. In the third, the Hamilton entry was a filly named Melody. Melody, to Johnny, looked like a sure hunch bet. When the mutuels opened, he laid three hundred across the board, a hundred each way.

Carol was at the window with him, and when she saw the money, her eyes went wide.

"It's the only way I can get enough dimes to pay the notes," he explained to her.

She couldn't, in her feminine way, understand that, despite his explanations. To her, gambling was losing, not winning. Even the fact that Melody won, and paid off seven, four and three, didn't change that.

Carol said, "Johnny, I wish you'd promise me one thing. Don't bet. You'll get the money. I know everything's going to be all right. But don't bet."

He grinned at her. "Nothing but cinches. That's not betting; that's just a fast investment."

Ghosts of Many US Soldiers Would Envy New Patton-48

NEW YORK (AP) — The ghost of many an American soldier, gazing down from the Valhalla of heroes, would have looked with wry envy at a U. S. Army ceremony this week.

It was the demonstration of the mighty new Patton 48 tank.

"Gee, that was the kind of tank I used to dream of before I was killed in Tunisia," you can imagine one soldier saying.

"Yeah, we talked about having a tank like that before I died in the battle of the Belgian Bulge," replies his spectral buddy. "Boy, look at that gun it packs—and its low silhouette."

"Yep," says the first soldier, "It's got almost the same lines as the German tank that ambushed the crate I got hit in back in 1942."

And if the heroic dead bear any ill-will, one couldn't blame the two spectral tankmen for resenting the fact that their country gave them no such tank to fight in when they were among the living.

Army Secretary Frank Pace hailed the powerful new 48-ton Patton as "the finest medium tank in the world."

If battle tests prove this claim true, it is encouraging. For many veteran tankmen hold that American armor was inferior in design, crew protection, and hitting power, as compared to both German and Russian armor, in the second World War.

But this brilliant new weapon is still to be put in real mass production, and it soon will be 11 years after Pearl Harbor.

This situation points up the danger of two civilian legends that have long hampered American military power—and cost us needless casualties:

1. The squirrel gun legend—"If war comes 10 million Americans will grab grandpappy's old squirrel gun off the mantle, and repel the invader."

2. The know—how legend—"We are the most inventive people in the world, and we can turn out newer and better weapons faster than any possible group of enemies."

Both of these legends are relics of America's bold frontier past, but neither holds true in the middle half of the Twentieth Century.

No civilian nation can spring to arms with squirrel guns any more and win a modern war. It is a perilous tradition, this 19th century hangover in our thinking that we can hold off an enemy with out-of-date weapons while we quickly gear up and turn out better ones. Wars today move too fast.

As to the legend that Americans are the most inventive race, the facts simply don't bear it out—at least on the battlefields. The Germans produced the best submarines, tanks and all-purpose artillery guns in the last war. They put the first jet planes in the air, the first guided missiles—rockets and buzz bombs.

Our real genius has been in the field of mass production. But today the Russians have more and speedier jet planes in Korean skies than we have, proof that their industrial revolution has gone along perhaps as fast as their social revolution.

The greatest military enemy the American people have is their own complacency, the habit of low-rating the capacity of other lands. We have lagged in both research and production of new weapons.

The bitter penalty for this foolhardiness is paid by our own soldiers and airmen. They have found in Korea—as they did in Tunisia—that combat bravery cannot improvise a sturdier tank, a faster airplane.

But they go on holding the line with what they have until the people at home shake the nonsense out of their system and get down to creating and building them the tools they need to win.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood—

Marilyn Monroe To Defence Of Those Bikini Swim Suits

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The French bathing suit, which has been denounced by many glamor girls, today was upheld by Marilyn Monroe.

If there's anyone I'd like to see uphold a Bikini, it's Marilyn Monroe, but that's another matter. The point is that this is the season when American women are shopping for bathing suits. Ever since they made an appearance on these shores, the French briefies have been lashed by beauty experts and film stars.

For instance, I once sampled opinions in Hollywood and got answers like these:

Esther Williams — Bikinis are not flattering and they're impractical; you can't swim in them.

Janet Leigh — I like low-cut evening gowns, but the nudity of French bathing suits isn't attractive.

Betty Grable — If the French girls want to show their navels, it's all right with me. I'll stick to American swim suits.

But now the Bikini acquires a champion in Marilyn. Of course, it's possible that she is merely anti-clothes. She's the girl who posed for those calendars in nothing more than a smile.

"I like the Bikini," she insisted. "They're very comfortable. And they're very practical for sunbathing. I love sunbathing. I think you should expose as much area to the sun as possible. As a matter of Fact. I think nude sunbathing is the best of all. But, of course, that's usually pretty hard to arrange.

"The doctor advised me to get a lot of rest and nude sun baths after the operation for my appendix. Luckily, I have an enclosed porch to the Bel-Air Hotel so I can do that."

I asked her if she had any trouble from helicopters while sunbathing.

"No, not from helicopters," she remarked cryptically.

"I don't know why you can't swim in Bikinis," she commented in reply to Esther Williams. "If the suit is fastened properly before you go in the water, nothing should go wrong. At least I've never had any trouble with mine."

What advice would she give to a woman going out to buy a suit?

"I'd say to steer clear of those suits with stays and bones built into them. I think those artificial devices give a woman lines which are worse than the ones she has. I'm in favor of giving the body its natural lines."

Miss Monroe added that although she favors the Bikini, she cannot be photographed in one now. "The Johnston office won't approve of it," remarked the girl whose calendar photos are everybody's secret.

The beauteous blonde is currently appearing in "Niagara." When I visited the set, I watched her perform a scene in which she exited from a bath. (I had to beat off three other correspondents for this privilege.) Joseph Cotten was required to wipe her back with a towel, and for this work he receives a few thousand dollars a week. She was wrapped up in another towel, by the way.

Before each scene, the Monroe back was sprayed with drops from a tank sprayer. A set worker offered this information: "We put soft water only in this tank. We wouldn't think of using hard water on Monroe."

Royal Ragar Heads Green Rilge Legion

Green Ridge Post, No. 491, American Legion, at its meeting Wednesday night, held an election of officers resulting as follows: Royal Ragar, commander; Quinton Binder, first vice-commander; William Hibner, second vice-commander; George T. Murphy, service officer; Herman Smith, child welfare; Howard Bell, sergeant-at-arms; Price Ruffin, chaplain; Russell Miller, adjutant; Buck Carter, finance oficer; Jimmy Stark, historian.

Routine business was transacted and following the election refreshments were served.

Boy Rescues Dog When Police Fail

SEWARD, N. Y. (AP)—It was the small boy who rescued the dog this time.

State police had worked for hours trying to free a collie from a culvert, when a small boy stepped from among the bystanders.

The youngster stripped off his clothes, crawled into the culvert and tied a rope around the dog, which then was pulled free. It had been trapped eight hours.

The boy vanished before troopers could find out his name.

Beer Saves Man From Fatal Leap

NEW YORK (AP)—Each time police tried to get near John Payden yesterday, he threatened to jump from the roof of his Bronx home.

Finally, one of the officers suggested: "How about a beer."

"Sure," said Payden, 54-year-old stock appraiser.

The policemen obtained the beer and handed it up to Payden. The time it took him to drink it was just long enough for them to sneak up a ladder behind him and grab him.

Payden was taken to a hospital for observation.

Hollywood Column—

Virginia Mayo Likes to Look Like Someone Else In Leg Art

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —True, everybody in Hollywood wants to be someone else — actors wish they were directors; directors wish they were producers and so on.

after seeing Virginia in "She's she wants to look like someone else, let's face it. That's carrying dissatisfaction too far!

I learned this bit of intelligence after seeing virginia in "She's Working Her Way Through College" in which she plays Hot Garters Gertie, a burlesque stripper. This picture accents a well-known Hollywood fact, to wit:

Virginia Mayo is the possessor of the movies' most beautiful body. And she's got the face to go with it.

For one thing the makeup departments at Warners and other studios reveal that she needs only powder and rouge to look her best before the cameras. That's something that can't be said of all glamor girls in this town.

Armed with all these facts and figures, I asked Virginia what she thought of cheesecake.

"I like it very much," she replied unsmilingly. "It tastes real good."

"I didn't mean that kind of cheesecake."

"Oh," she smiled. "You mean the other kind — leg art. Frankly, I don't mind posing for it but I don't enjoy seeing cheesecake or any other kind of pictures where I look like me. I like pictures of myself where I look like someone else, preferably Vivien Leigh."

Now Miss Leigh is a beauty and undoubtedly one of the worlds greatest actresses but one will get you 10 that she would gladly trade the Oscar she won last March if she could look like Virginia in a bathing suit. Or play Hot Garters Gertie.

I asked Virginia if this business of wanting to look like Miss Leigh harbored a secret yearning to be a great dramatic actress.

"Naturally, I'd like to be a great actress. And the studio gives me enough versatility in my roles so I can try. But basically, I'm a song and dance girl. I love musicals and wouldn't care if I did nothing but musicals. That's all Betty Grable does.

The mention of Betty Grable momentarily stunned me. I started thinking how Betty would like reading that Virginia Mayo has the best figure in Hollywood. But then it's a well known fact around town that Betty reads only the racing form.

But Marilyn Monroe? There's a girl who reads everything. And Joe DiMaggio is her boy friend.

This job of writing about Hollywood glamor can be hazardous.

Ana Pauker Fired As Romanian Red

BERLIN (AP)—Ana Pauker has been fired from her job as foreign minister of Romania, the Soviet-licensed news agency ADN reported today from Bucharest.

The news agency said Simion Buchici has been appointed to take the place of the one-time darling of international Communism who was purged in May from the Romanian Communist party's high command.

The ADN report said Mrs. Pauker, the hefty, 59-year-old daughter of a rabbi, was fired "by decree of the great National Assembly of the People's Republic of Romania."

Her ouster had been expected since she was purged from the nation's Politboro for "errors and deviations."

At that time she and several other top Romanian Reds were denounced as counter-revolutionary. Western observers said they were being made scapegoats for Romania's current economic woes.

Find Evidence For $73 Million In Tax Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Revenue Bureau's special "racket squads" found evidence for $73,176,196 in additional tax claims against "known and suspected criminals" in their first year of operations.

The bureau, reporting this today, said the racket squads had also obtained 374 indictments and convicted 199 of those brought to trial during the 12 months ended April 30.

The 2,126 investigators assigned to the racket squads set up over the country were investigating 13,553 cases at that time, and were prepared to go into more than 10,000 other cases referred to them.

In closing out 15,430 cases during the 12 months, the bureau said, the squads recommended that fraud penalties be imposed in 1,937 cases.

But the squads appeared to have discovered, too, that a number of cases referred to them as involving criminal characters didn't measure up. The report said 5,489 were "removed from the racketeer classification," which means they'll get the ordinary-citizen treatment.

The bureau also disclosed it collected $3,079,970 from the 10 per cent levy on wagers in the first six months after that tax took effect last Nov. 1, and $573,989 in the same period from the $50-a-year occupational stamp tax imposed on professional gamblers.

Water is the most used liquid in the chemical industry; sulphuric acid ranks second.

Country Hams Attracted To State Fair

In which county of Missouri are the best hams cured? This question will be answered, for the current year at least, on Sunday, Aug. 17, when hams from all over the state are judged at the Missouri State Fair.

This year a total of $471 is being offered by the State Fair in the ham show, with $125 in premium money for the owner of the grand champion ham.

In adidtion, if the ham comes from a Yorkshire, Duroc, OIC, Poland China, Spotted Poland China, or Hereford hog, the winner will receive an adidtional $25 from the state breed association.

According to the 1952 premium book released recently, hams weighting 12 to 17 pounds will be judged together and hams weighing 18 to 25 pounds will constitute a second class. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded through 15 places in each class.

G. M. Barnhart, superintendent of this year's ham show, is contacting all of last year's ham exhibitors in an effort to insure an even bigger turnout this year. Anyone desiring to enter may write him through the State Fair office in Sedalia.

James E. Comfort, well known meat specialist at the University of Missouri, and Cordell Tindall of the Missouri Ruralist, will serve as judges.

The ham show is one of the main features of this year's fair which will run from Aug. 16 to 24.

1,019 Workers Attend Commie's Shanghai School

HONG KONG (AP)—The Shanghai Liberation Daily reports that 1,019 workers have been graduated from the Shanghai Workers Political School after learning the elementary ABC's of communism.

The newspaper issue, reaching here today, said 385 graduates were granted membership in the Communist party at commencement exercises.

This is considered significant. Red policy appears to call for party cadres in jobs of influence, technical skill and administration.

Workers held over in these jobs from pre-Communist days have continued "reactionary and capitalistic" methods in trade and industry.

The Reds do not have anywhere near enough skilled people to replace them, but have started turning them out in job lots on a quick course program.

Technical and administrative experts predict future trouble for the Reds from these half-trained technicians and managers. But the Reds, apparently, prefer risking bungling in the factory to wavering in the political zone.

Peter Hodges Will Attend St. Joseph's

A graduate of Sacred Heart High School, Hodges will report to St. Joseph's in September for a five-day orientation period before beginning classes Sept. 16 in the college's 62nd academic year.

College Boys Found As Plane Stowaways; Would Have Perished

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was a short flight for two college students who climbed into the nosewheel well of an airliner headed for Chicago last night.

Harvey A. Wichman, 20, and Russell L. LA Rose, 19, both of Greendale, Wis., were turned over to police on a stowaway charge after the plane crew learned of their presence five minutes after takeoff. The two said they wanted to go home for summer vacation but were short on cash.

Visitors at the Los Angeles International Airport saw two youths scale a fence and climb onto a plane parked on the apron preparatory to takeoff. They notified tower officials who radioed the United Air Lines plane captain. He returned the plane to the airport.

Air line officials said the youths would have died from lack of oxygen at the 19,000-foot altitude where the plane flies. Wichman had been attending Los Angeles City College and La Rose said he was a student at Deep Springs Junior College near Bishoo, Calif.

Woman Wanders 21 Hours In Mountains Before She's Rescued

BOULDER, Colorado (AP) — A young Denver church worker wandered in aimless circles for 21 hours after becoming lost on a holiday outing before searchers found her in rugged mountain country west of here.

Her thin sandals cut to shreds on the jagged rocks, Mrs. Lesta R. O'Sullivan, 33, suffered bruised and bleeding feet but otherwise survived her ordeal apparently in good shape.

Taking a Bible with her, she went for a walk from a friend's cabin in the little old mining settlement of Crisman Thursday afternoon. Sheriff's officers and members of the Rocky mountain rescue group searched until three boys from a nearby summer camp spotted Mrs. O'Sullivan on a ridge.

WD TRACTION BOOSTER
Gives You More Work Power

When you set the hydraulic lever on the WD Tractor, you can add as much as a thousand pounds of weight on the rear tractor wheels.
As the drawbar load increases, the hydraulic system uses the weight of the implement plus the weight of the soil to bear down on the wheels. Location of the implement behind the tractor gives it leverage, which multiples implement weight at the tractor axle.
It's entirely automatic. The tractor selects the amount of weight needed. And it's all a part of the complete WD hydraulic system—no extra equipment.
Stop in and let us show you how the WD will do drawbar jobs which ordinarily require a much heavier tractor.

92 Years In Same House

BROWNSVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A century-old house, built of logs hand-hewn by her father, has always been "home, sweet home" to Mrs. Laura Cornwell.

For all of her 92 years, Mrs. Cornwell has lived in the house. She was born, reared and married there. And there she'll remain, she says, until she dies.

"I always felt home was the place for me. I had rather be home than anywhere."

Shortage Of Social Workers

MONTREAL (AP)—Current shortage of trained social workers may become even more acute in the near future because enrollments in Canadian schools of social work are dropping.

Dr. J. J. O'Moore of the McGill School of Social work said fewer than half of the first-year students at the McGill class would finish their two-year course because of lack of financial support for such students.

Biggest Challenge In Spying Succeeded: Atom Secrets in US

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Col. Nikolai Zabotin leaned back in his swivel chair and beamed at the message on the desk before him.

"Well, Vasily," he purred to Lt. Col. Rogov, his aide, "I have nothing to be afraid of now when I go back to Moscow."

Zabotin was military attache of the Soviet mission in Ottawa. On his desk was a message from "the director," chief of Soviet Russia's military intelligence. Dated late in 1945, it was full of congratulations, and the director had added: "I wish you further success in your honorable work." It informed Zabotin he had been awarded the Order of the Red Star and the Order of the Red Banner, Moscow's gifts to men who do exceptional organization work.

Zabotin had indeed done an exceptional job. The organization set up and directed by him, under cover of diplomatic status in a nation which even then was fighting on Russia's side in the war, revealed the pattern of a vast international spy ring which may yet be regarded as the most successful espionage operation in history.

The Canadian operation was not isolated. It was closely linked with operations in the United States, in Britain, and even in Sweden, where its activities are still coming to light.

Its discovery — when the Soviet Embassy code clerk, Igor Gouzenko, defected in Ottawa — showed that Stalin's secret army abroad was directed from a building at Znamensky 19 in Moscow, headquarters of the Soviet Army's general intelligence. The 1946 Canadian disclosures provide the thread which can be followed to the operations of atom scientist Klaus Fuchs in Britain, to the ring operating in the United States and even to the one operating in Sweden.

What Gouzenko disclosed sent 10 persons to prison. Among them was Dr. Alan Nunn May, British atom scientist captured in London in 1946 and tried there for his activities in the Canadian ring. He drew 10 years.

The activities of Nunn and the others were organized in the special sections of the Soviet Embassy mission, but the royal commission's investigators said Ambassador Georgi Zarubin was not directly involved. But in 1946, when Canada put the heat on the Soviet spies, Zarubin was withdrawn and assigned to London. Now, as he is leaving London to become Stalin's ambassador in Washington, a new spy story has broken, involving the contacts of a young Foreign Office radio operator with an attache of the London Soviet Embassy.

It was not until four years after the Canadian ring was broken that British and American authorities uncovered the activities of Dr. Klaus Emil Julius Fuchs, who has been called the deadliest spy in history. Fuchs, a cog in the vast international soviet spy machine, supplies a link between the Canadian ring and those in the U. S. and Sweden.

Fuchs was a naturalized Briton who had been a member of the Communist party in his native Germany before he left there in 1932.

Britain in 1940 sent him to Canada for safekeeping as an enemy alien. He was released in 1942, returned to London, and got his British citizenship. But authorities believe he had become a Soviet agent in 1939, instructed to work his way up in the British atomic energy program.

Fuchs spent 30 fruitful months in the United States, as a trusted member of Britain's official atomic bomb mission, picking up the most secret of information at Los Alamos, N. M., and Oak Ridge, Tenn.

On New York's East Side, in Boston and at other places in the U. S., Fuchs made contact with the Soviet agents, to turn over information he had received. It was channeled back through Britain and through the Swedish ring of spy-couriers to Moscow.

One of the errand boys in the United States was Harry Gold, born Golodnitsky of Russian parentage. He was a chemical researcher from Philadelphia and had been in the courier service of the Communists since 1933. Gold was assigned his task by an agent from the Canadian ring, who kept him "in the net" — the Russian expression for the spy service — by repeated threats to expose him.

One day in 1944, Gold was called in by a Soviet agent and told he had a big job to do. He was to deliver the atom secrets obtained in the U. S. by Fuchs. Gold delivered six packets, meeting Fuchs at various rendezvous.

After the arrest of Fuchs — now serving 14 years in Britain — Gold was seized in Philadelphia. He confessed and got 30 years.

The trail led to David Greenglass, U. S. Army sergeant stationed at Los Alamos and rated among the top secret Soviet agents in the U. S. He turned state's evidence to avoid the death penalty and helped impose it on his own sister, Ethel Rosenberg, and her husband Julius, now in Sing Sing death house. Greenglass got off with 15 years.

Also caught up in the dragnet was Morton Sobell, radar expert, who helped the Rosenbergs recruit atom spies. Turned over by Mexican authorities after he tried to flee the country, Sobell like Gold, drew a 30-year sentence. Many smaller fry also were caught.

Now the scene shifts to Sweden. There, one night, "Shady Fish" got drunk. That one too many caused Johan Fritiof Enbom, 33, to become a bit loose-tongued, arousing the suspicions of a young Swedish student, who went to the authorities.

What the police found shocked Sweden.

Enbom, known underground as Fala Fisken or Shady Fish, made his headquarters at Boden, Northern Sweden, not far from an underground fortress the neutral Swedes built against the possibility of Soviet aggression from the direction of Finland. Enbom's ring reported regularly to the Soviet mission in Stockholm, using correspondents of the Soviet news agency Tass as contact men. He headed a group whose tasks included a relay for dispatches sent from London by way of Narvik, Norway. Fuchs' information was channeled by this route. At the same time Enbom, the rest of his group and his girl friend, Lilian Ceder, sold the Russians much information about Sweden's defenses and plans to meet the possibility of a war emergency.

This disclosure a month ago was the second big spy shock for Sweden in a short time. Last autumn, Ernst Hilding Andersson, an engineer in the Swedish Army now serving life imprisonment as a spy, confessed to selling secrets of Sweden's armaments and defenses. That information was turned over to N. P. Orlov, an embassy attache, who subsequently had to leave the country. Andersson, who described himself as a Communist believing in Moscow above all else, had direct contacts with Victor Anissimov, a Tass correspondent who turned out to be a member of Beria's secret police.

The Swedish operation illustrated the meshed gears of the world Soviet spy organization. Sweden's was no isolated case. It was directly connected with the activities of Soviet Embassy sections in London, in Canada and probably also in the United States. It was a relay point on the transmission belt from West to East, carrying life and death information to the Kremlin.
